Pulaski-Jacobs.

The San Bernardino Courier says: "San Bernardino society will join with the Courier in congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Jacobs on the betrothal of their charming daughter, Miss Gussie, whose amiability and accomplishments have strongly endeared her to the people of her native city, to Mr. Samuel Polaski, of Los Angeles, a gentleman who deserves his good fortune in winning one of San Bernardino's most beautiful and estimable girls. The young people will be at home on next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, when they will be happy to receive their friends. While Miss Gussie's troops of friends will be cordial in their congratulations, and rejoice in her happiness, there will yet be deep regret at her approaching departure from this city, in which she is so highy esteemed, indeed so affectionately regarded."

An Editor Encounters a Former Flame.

[Louisville Post.]

"Women are peculiar creatures," remarked a sour old-timer to me. "On an average they have six or seven desperate affairs before finally marrying. Now, it is natural that in the majority of them things happened that are of the most sacred character. Then, urged on possibly by mercenary parents, they marry some fellow because he can support them. In the course of time they meet their old lover and look him square in the face as if without a thought of the intimate past, and as unblushingly as if they had been strangers all their lives. If the past does come up to them they never show it; their acting is the perfection of art. I confess to having made a study of women, but the more I trouble my brain with the subject the more confused my conclusions are."

Ostriches at Coronado.

[San Diego Sun.]

The ostrich farm on block 40 of Coronado Beach seems now to be among the certainties, as the contract between the Coronado Beach Company and Mr. Johnson, the owner of the Fallbrook ostrich farm, was signed yesterday for the removal of the ostriches to the beach. Eight young ostriches were hatched yesterday.

How Kissing Was Introduced.

[The Highlander.]

The story runs that kissing was introduced into England by Rowena, the daughter of Hengist, the Saxon. At a banquet which was given by the British monarch in honor of his allies the Princess, after pressing the brimming breaker to her lips, saluted the astonished and delighted Vortigern with a little kiss, after the manner of her own people.

THE HOODLUMS.

THEY RAISE ANOTHER ROW AT SANTA MONICA.

And Enliven the Trip Up From the Beach by a Howling Fracas—Bad Men and Worse Women on the Rampage.

Another disgraceful row occurred at Santa Monica, and on the local train yesterday. The opening of the new base-ball grounds and of several saloons at Santa Monica, yesterday, drew a large portion of the rough element from this city, and two trains were used in carrying the rather mixed excursion party to the beach. Of course their were a great many respectable people on the trains, but if this thing is repeated, the railroad people may expect to give their trains on Sunday up to the rough element, as all of the respectable people, who were on the last train to return last evening, declared that they would never make the trip again, unless they were assured by the company that yesterday's doings would not be repeated.

It will be remembered that THE TIMES called the attention of the railroad people and the authorities to the class of people who think they have a right to take charge of every train that is run from Santa Monica to Los Angeles on Sunday. Fully a dozen of the toughest characters in town, and their "gurls," visited the beach yesterday, and as soon as they arrived there they begun to drink. In a very short time they were pretty well filled up with Arizona poison, and all of the respectable people had to seek the shelter of hotels and houses. When the first train left for home all the people who could get seats boarded it, and had a quiet ride home. By the time the last train was ready to leave the toughs were so drunk that they could hardly walk to the depot. Just before the train departed a general row took place, and several fights were indulged in. The brutes were too drunk to hurt each other much, but their language was terrible, and the respectable people who were unfurtunate enough to have been left were compelled to listen to it. Judge Morgan, who happened to be at the depot, anticipated trouble on the way up, and telegraphed to police headquarters in this city, informing the chief that he had better send a squad of men to the depot to meet the Santa Monica train. Deputy Sheriff Del Valle and the railroad officers, Seccots and Dorsey, were on the train, and succeeded in getting the noisy ones into the last car. Several attempts to stop the train were made by the toughs, and a number of rows occurred on the way up, but the officers managed to keep them tolerably quiet. As the train neared the city the officers placed five or six of the disturbers under arrest, and when the train pulled up at the old depot, the Chief of Police and his men were on hand, but the inmates of the car were not allowed to leave the train, and were taken to the new depot. At the old depot Capt. Tyler caught one of them, who was in the act of striking a man who had a baby in his arms. The captain placed the fellow under arrest and marched him to the station, where he gave his name as William Shoemaker, and said he was not with the other crowd. He was locked up until his employer put in an appearance and bailed him out.

Five or six were taken to the station, but they were not booked for the reason that the railroad officers refused to say they would appear against them this morning. Among the persons who raised the row are several prostitutes, and their language was viler than any used by the men. The railroad company will probably consent to prosecute them, as the officers know where the whole gang can be found.

HORACE BURDICK.

A Pioneer Suddenly Taken Off by Apoplexy.

Horace Burdick, one of the oldest and best respected citizens of Los Angeles, died at his home on Second street, between Main and Spring, at half-past 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Mr. Burdick had been complaining somewhat for several months, but nobody thought that his taking off was to be so sudden. Saturday he took a ride with Dr. Noble, going to the Lick ranch, north of the city. At the ranch he ate some strawberries and cream, which disagreed with him, causing him some pain. He returned home and went to bed. At 3 p.m. he became unconscious, and at 9:30 expired. Dr. Worthington, the family physician, was in attendance, and pronounced the cause of death apoplexy.

Mr. Burdick was born in Jamestown, Chattanooga county, N. Y. He came to Los Angeles in 1859 and has resided here ever since. He was Deputy Sheriff under Sheriffs Burns, Rowland and Currier, serving, in all, about ten years in that capacity. He served one term as City Justice and one term as City Tax Collector. During three years when he was not in official life he carried on a hardware business.

Mr. Burdick was a prominent Odd Fellow, having served a number of terms as District Deputy Grand Master.

He leaves a wife and one married daughter—Mrs. Fred Eaton.

The funeral will take place today, and is announced elsewhere.

The Paris Ballet.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat.]

The ballet corps of the Paris Grand Opera consists of 115 women and girls. There are three stars, ten first subjects, twenty-two second subjects, three divisions of coryphees or leaders, two quadrilles, divided into four sections, the "walkers" and infant class, or "rats." The pupils receive 40 cents each time they appear; the young ladies of the quadrilles, from $20 to $40 a month; the coryphees, from $50 to $60; the subjects, or those who dance the steps outside the ensemble figures, $60 to $300; the stars, from $5000 to $6000 per year. These last-named amounts are less than the salaries paid in former days. Thus Taglioni gained $7200 a year; Fanny Elssler, $9000; Carlotta Grisi, $8400; La Cerito, $9000, and La Rosati, $12,000. The organization of the Grand Opera ballet dates from 1713, and was decreed by Louis XIV. The grand monarch even wrote the regulations for the first ballet corps with his own hand.

The Demoralized English Army.

[London Society.]

During last year no less than 5000 soldiers deserted from the ranks. In addition to this numbers purchased their discharge, alleging as their reasons for doing so that there were too many rough characters to associate with; too many masters; distaste for language of barrack-room; deceived by poster "advantages of the army" as to pay and rations; the offensive bearing of some of the officers; rations insufficient and general disappointment with military life; could not get married with leave, there being no prospect of a vacancy. The desertions from the militia during the same year numbered upward of 10,000 men.

FARM AND RANGE.

SCIENCE OF HORTICULTURE.

The Vast Field for Experiment Open to Investigators.

[San Francisco Bulletin.]

The advent of the day when terraced heights, reached by gradual and gentle curves, will crown the almost virgin hills that yet remain on this coast will reveal advanced conditions in building and embellishments. Perhaps the most essential will be the application of the principles of horticulture—not the crude and as yet undigested system which prevails to so general an extent, but the science in the broadest acceptation of the term, embracing the practice of the cultivation of flowers, fruits and vegetables. With every advantage that can be vouchsafed to a favored people, it must be acknowledged that California has depended far more upon its bountiful resources for the developments of the wealth of its soil than upon scientific agencies, which would aid in the production of the most grateful results. We have been copyists and not originators. Let it be remembered that the most successful system of horticulture is that which turns to the best account the plastic organization of the plant, and enables it to develop and multiply as perfectly as possible. An intelligent understanding of the details of principles are of primary importance. The root of a plant, pruning and lifting, watering, syringing, layering, grafting, propagation, planting, hybridizing, pruning training, germination are but a few of the details that enter into the principle of horticulture. They are, it is true, mechanical in their application, yet they are the base of successful production. Besides these, other considerations enter into the practice of an experienced horticulturist—the formation and preparation of the garden structures and edifices, garden materials and appliances and garden operations.

The single subject of hybridism involves matters of detail replete with importance. This State is the home and haunt of a multiplicity of plants which would form a useful base for graft hybridism, with what results cannot be conjectured, but experiments in that direction would at least be instructive. The bizzarria orange, for example, is a graft-hybrid between the bitter orange and the citron. The tri-facial orange blends three distinct kinds of fruits in one, and was produced by artificially splitting and uniting the seeds taken from the three different species, the fruits of which now occur mingled with the triple hybrid. Other instances of graft-hybridism are those of jessamines, vines, potatoes, beets and roses. The hyacinth flower was in cultivation prior to 1597. The original was an insignificant plant, bearing on a spike only a few small, narrow-lobed, washy-blue flowers. Now few flowers make a more effective display than the hyacinth, and today nurserymen offer in their annual catalogues of select sorts quite a large number of different varieties.

In the northern part of this State and along the coast of Oregon, the rhododendron, or, as it is there called, the wild laurel, grows in profusion. During the spring and summer months the woods are radiant with the loveliness of this wild flower. Whether it could be successfully hybridized is worthy of experiment, for if it can be, and introduced into our gardens, it would be an adornment hardly to be rivaled. In some of the Southern States the watermelon has been crossed with the orange with great success. The meat of the melon preserves its flavor, but its in texture resembles that of the orange, and is separated from the meatlike the orange.

The time is propitious for encouraging the promotion of the science of horticulture in its entirety. If there were a more universal recognition of its principles, a more systematic method of gardening would unquestionally be adopted. It is not enough to depend upon the florist or the orchardist, or the gardener for covet d supplies of his product. In California everyone should have some knowledge of gardening. If all had, we would not be reproached with the taunt that our gardens are not what they should be. What is it that gives the city of Salt Lake its undeniable charms? Not its broad and shady streets; not the lofty Wasatch Mountain, which lifts its crest high above the capital of the saints, but the gardens and orchards which are attached to every house. The San Francisco of the future under an advanced idea of the benefits, moral and physical, to be derived from a comprehensive grasp of the science of horticulture, will inevitably become a city of gardens and orchards, a veritable urbs in rure.

THE APRICOT QUESTION.

An Estimated Crop of 200,000 Tons in Five Years.

[Call.]

That was a wise remark of Prof. Hilgard, at the State Horticultural Society's meeting, on Friday, when he said that fruit-growers would do well to devote their attention to fruits of which they possessed a practical monopoly. Such is the apricot. It cannot be grown at the East, or to any extent in Western Europe. Yet it is a choice fruit, and one which becomes more popular as it is better known. Here in California, if care is taken not to plant it on irrigated soil—it will not stand irrigation—it grows to perfection. Five years ago the total crop of the State was probably not over 2000 tons. This year it is estimated that it will amount to 18,500 tons, chiefly from the counties of Alameda, Solano and Santa Clara, and Mr. Kimball, of Hayward's, no mean judge, reckons that we shall live to see a crop of 200,000 tons raised in this State. The question arises: What are we going to do with so much fruit?

The answer is to be found in the fact that, of all the fruits, the apricot is the only one which improves with cooking. Canned apricots are better than the raw fruit. There is, practically, no limit to the market which may be found for them in the East, in Europe, and in the Asiatic and Australian seaports. Judge Blackwood says that the canneries of this State will not consume this season over 5000 tons. We think he is mistaken, and that the consumption will run more nearly to 8000. But why should not the canneries consume twice that quantity, if they can buy the fruit at a suitable price? It is a mere question of increasing their plant, which can be done at a moderate cost, and increasing their force, which involves no difficulty. The Judge foresees a scarcity of labor to handle so much fruit. There is not often a harvest of any crop which does not develop a scarcity of labor, but the world has seldom seen merchantable crops lost for want of hands to harvest them. Let it be known that men, women and children are wanted in Solano and Alameda to pick and pack apricots, and they will be forthcoming in one shape or another.

A more serious danger exists in the form of a controversy between growers and canners over prices. Fruit growers are apt to expect too much money, and canners, of course, would like to buy raw fruit for a song. To reconcile these conflicting views common sense will be required. Fruit-growers must not expect to grow rich in a season. A man who makes $100 an acre annual profit off land which cost $200 an acre is doing very well indeed. He had better take $50 an acre than let his crop go to waste. Men at the East think they are faring well when they net $10 an acre. On the other hand, while the canner this season will be master of the situation, it is a mastery which it will be expensive to abuse. Fruit growers are growing rich; if they feel that they are being badly used by the canners they will not be slow to establish canneries of their own. Of all men in the world the farmer is the last to submit patiently to injustice. His memory is long and his blade is sharp for those who wrong him.

There is so much common sense floating around in these days that it is safe to assume that the controversy over prices will be adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties. In that case it will be well for the canners to prepare to handle a crop of at least 10,000 tons this season. This would leave 8,500 tons for home consumption and for shipments to the East in the shape of raw fruit. Probably over 500 carloads will go to Chicago and other points east. No satisfactory arrangement has yet been made between the railroads and the fruit-growers as to freights. The railroads ask $500 per car for single-car lots to Chicago on passenger time. The fruit-growers offer $300 per car on ten-car trains to Chicago, and $400 per car on ten-car trains to New York, passenger time. These bids and offers are so far apart that there would seem to be room for a compromise. Half an hour's talk between the railroad authorities and a committee of the fruit-growers would probably lead to a solution of the problem.

LIVE STOCK.

Notes of Interest About Domestic Animals.

Feeding the cows bran and shorts will prevent abortion. The lack of phosphates weakens the vital organs and makes a feeble fœtus.

The ewe may own her lamb, but does it get any milk? Perhaps she has none, and then, again, perhaps she has so much the udder is caked, and perhaps the lamb cannot start the milk. Not attending to this, perhaps, causes much loss.

If the farmer has not provided for succulent foods when the young come, he has made a mistake. The best thing to do is to try linseed meal and bran, and use these mixed, bran two parts and linseed meal one part. The bowels should be open and the excrement free from dryness. A close observation of these things will save the lives of many young animals, and often of the old ones.

There is the breeding mare—she should have a stirabout every day, and food to fill the udder before the colt comes. If there is too much milk, change the food so that it will not be quite so succulent. There is more risk with the little foal than with any animal on the farm. Be sure that it sucks as soon as it can stand, or it will get weak. The mother is sometimes nervous and will not let it suck, and sometimes her udder is sore and she will not let it; sometimes the colt cannot hold its head up long enough to get its nourishment; sometimes the mare does not have enough milk on the start. By not looking sharply at these "sometimes" many a colt has died.

If the bull is ugly saw off his horns close to his head. Put some cotton dipped in grease into the ends and bind a cloth around. This will check the blood and keep the air out of the skull. Do the same thing to an ugly-hooking cow.

The calves may be dishorned when the button or the starting horn appears. The whole foundation or beginning of the horn must be cut out. It takes a carving-knife to do it well, so as to get well under the bottom. This is not a painful operation, and makes a muley of a horned animal.

The new-born calf should be kept warm and so should the mother. A good, kind-hearted dairyman will have a warm box-stall for the cow-mother, with a nice lot of bedding, and here the cow will be kept for a few days, and be given warm drink and a warm mash. She will not be worried, nor allowed to be disturbed. This will be a good start for a good cow. Put this Christian treatment alongside of a snow-bank for a bedroom or the stanchions and the wet floor.

There was once a man who milked a big cow two years for nothing. There was no cream in her milk. He made butter from his dairy, and was badly fooled with that cow. There is only one sure way. Test all of the cows.

As soon as it is noticed that a sheep has the stretches, mix cottonseed or linseed meal in her food and wheat bran. Begin with a gill and add to it a little every day. The sheep should always have half bran with their meal.

The cream takes out of the milk about four parts of its solids, which are rated at thirteen parts of 100. This leaves eighty-seven parts water. On this basis some writers contend that a calf should never be fed skimmed milk, as there is not enough food in it. Well, if it is sour it is worse yet. Admit it all. When are the four parts of the solid in the cream worth the most? As veal or butter? They are worth four times as much as butter. All right! Do not starve the calf, but make up the four parts of solid with other food costing less than two cents per pound, This is business, sense and science combined.

Dutch Belted Cattle.

The Dutch belted cattle come from Holland, the native home of the Holstein-Friesian. They are not bred so extensively in Holland, nor in this country, as the latter. They are closely related to the larger Dutch breed, but unlike them, the white is all put in one big patch, which extends all around the body from just behind the shoulders and reaches to the flanks. The rest of the body is a coal-black. This blanket of white gives to their cattle a very unique appearance. They have rich yellow skins and are not excelled for hardiness. They are not so large as the Holstein-Friesians, and are not usually such great milkers. They are said to be good butter cows, but not remarkable. The steers make powerful oxen and are queer-looking; one-third of their length being white and the rest black. A herd-book has been established in the United States and their record begun. In Holland they are the favorites of the aristocracy, and they have been hard to purchase on this account. They were plenty about Middleton, N. Y., a few years ago. Among the oldest importers are P. T. Barnum, Hon. R. W. Colman and D. H. Haight, Goshen, N. Y. So strongly inbred or established in the blood is the peculiar mark of the belt that half-blooded calves will have it, and even one-fourth bred, and if the dams are red, the white blanket will appear on a red calf. There will be a white belt running all around the calf sometimes, although it may be narrow when there is only a trace of the belted blood in the animal.

A LADY VISITS THE "BABY SCHOOL" AND DESCRIBES IT.

Little Ones Taught Their First Steps in the Rugged Paths of Knowledge—Thinking and Doing Joined in Pleasant Pastime.

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Last week I paid a visit to the free kindergarten school, held in the Third Congregational Church building, at the corner of Railroad and Chavez streets. About thirty children were present, but three or four of these were not regular pupils; they were public school children who had drifted into the kindergarten to beguile some of the long hours of the fortnight's vacation granted during the session of the Teachers' Institute. For the last few months the average attendance has been small, owing to the prevalence of measles, whooping-cough and small-pox. At ordinary times the daily muster ranges from thirty-five to forty, sometimes running higher.

Miss Clarke, the head mistress, who received a thorough training at Mr. Wiggins's kindergarten training school at San Francisco, takes charge of the advanced division. Miss Oliver assists her in the care of the minors and newcomers.

At the time of my visit, a few minutes before 11 o'clock, the children of the upper class were engaged in forming designs on their desks with red and lilac tablets. The desks are marked out in squares the size of the tablets. The teacher stands in front of the class and directs the arrangement of the tablets into regular figures. While we watched, the children constructed a very pretty design, building always from the center tablet outward.

When 11 o'clock struck the teachers disappeared for a moment and returned laden with hats—all sorts and conditions of hats—which were dealt out as fast as they were claimed by their respective owners. Then marching orders were given and the motley array trooped out to lunch and play.

Knowing that the character of a school is best seen in the play-ground, I took the chair that one of the little fellows gallantly placed for me outside the door. The mistress carried off a pail to a neighbor's house and brought it back filled with fresh cold water. It was a very hot day, and the children swarmed round the pail directly it was set on the steps. But eager as they were for a drink, there was no pushing or crowding or struggling to be first. Good temper prevailed everywhere throughout the entire half-hour. One small boy had the contents of the drinking cup inadvertently thrown over him. He looked a little rueful as the teacher dried his face and jacket, and assured him that the unwelcome bath had not been intended for him, and he finally decided to cheer up and neither cry nor sulk. One little girl, in her haste to quench her thirst, tumbled over another small tot, and both rolled over in the dust, and they, too, put a brave face on their misfortunes. Another little chap was disconsolate for the loss of his lunch, which had mysteriously disappeared, until one of his play-fellows, making the happy suggestion that some of the boys should be cows and the rest try to catch them, caused him to forget his disappointment, in the hurly-burly of "mooing" and hallooing that ensued.

Going indoors again at the end of the half-hour, the baby scholars marched round the neat ring chalked on the floor, clapping their hands in time to the kindergarten songs, sung to an organ accompaniment. When they paused to rest, the teacher called out a bright-looking little man and blindfolded him. She then told another child to leave the circle and stand in the vestibule out of sight. As she removed the bandage from the eyes of the little fellow standing at her knee, the children broke out into a song, bidding him tell who had left the ring, and promising to clap and sing if he guessed aright. After a careful look around the circle, he named the missing child. Three other children were tested, all but one guessing correctly.

Then followed the pretty game of hen and chickens. Four little girls, and one taller than the rest, were told off in the performance. The children, still keeping the ring, described in a song how the chickens feed in the barnyard, bobbing their heads to pick up tiny morsels. The five children, who were to act the hen and chickens, then ran into the ring, and, stooping down in the middle, imitated the movements alluded to in the song. In the last verse it was supposed to be nightfall, and the little girl who took the part of the hen opened her arms wide and spread them over the four chicks, who put their heads down and cuddled up together as close as they could. When they had all seemed to be fast asleep for the space of about three seconds the teacher gave the signal to a little boy in the ring, who ran forward flapping his arms as if they hab been wings and shouting "cock-a-doo-oo," to announce that it was morning in the play, whereupon the hen and chickens woke up in a great hurry and scurried off.

Then some other children played a game to illustrate the story of the butterfly. Keeping very close together they went down on all fours, and crept about like caterpillars. Then they coiled round in the middle of the ring and lay very still, in imitation of the sleep of a chrysalis. By and by a little girl sprang up and darted from side to side of the ring, with a light fluttering movement, such as a butterfly makes when it hovers over a flower before alighting, while the children in the ring sang a gay little song about the wonderful transformation that had taken place.

After this the little people went back to their desks and set to work at some pretty paper mats. I came away thoroughly pleased with what I had seen. The children were all cleanly dressed, though most of the little frocks would not bring much at a second-hand clothes shop. The faces and hands too, were, without exception, cleanly washed. I asked Miss Clarke if cleanliness and neatness came natural in that favored quarter of the city, or if she had had to make a special point of these virtues. She said that the children had improved very much in their personal appearance. The teacher encouraged the use of soap and water by praising any child who appeared with clean face and dress. This roused the ambition of the others, and made them, too, want to be clean and tidy.

The visit to the school at Sainsevain street, taught by Miss Mackay and Miss Severens, was made some weeks ago. The average attendance is about the same. The children seemed to belong to a less well-to-do class of parents. There were several darkies among them—as picturesque little mortals as ever were seen. On my entrance the children were engaged in modeling, and some of the little fingers had turned out very realistic pumps and candlesticks. They sang several of their charming, instructive songs, illustrated by motions. I thought, as I watched them perform their exercises so readily and gleefully, what a pleasure it would be to some of the rich children in the town, and to their mothers, too, to spend an hour some morning at the schools. All visitors interested in the work are very cordially welcomed by the teachers.

The kindergarten booth at the Flower Festival called forth a good deal of attention and inquiry from the visitors.

For the benefit of those readers who are not old residents, it may be worth while to subjoin a short sketch of the kindergarten movement in this city. The first free school was organized in September, 1884. By kind permission of the trustees of the Congregational Church, it is held in the Congregational Mission Chapel, Sainsevain street. Mr. Wells, pastor of the First Congregational Church, has always been a firm and loyal friend of the kindergarten. It must not be supposed, however, that the teaching at these schools is anywise sectarian. While it is Christian teaching, it is necessarily undenominational, since members of allthe churches contribute toward the fund. The school on Railroad and Chavez streets was organized September, 1886, opening with forty pupils. It is much indebted to the kindness of Mr. Hanley and those friends who join with him in raising a regular monthly contribution. The readiness with which parents have availed themselves of the kindergarten, together with the good results of the method traceable in the children and their homes, have rendered the board very anxious to open a third school in the city. The organizing of a new branch is only impeded by want of funds. All that has been done hitherto has been accomplished by private enterprise. Mrs. C. M. Severance, the president of the Kindergarten Association, has borne the brunt of the expense as well as of the responsibility. While she has been generously supported by a number of the most influential citizens, the rapid growth of the work has left the expenses ahead of the receipts. There are, doubtless, among the new settlers, many philanthropic and wealthy men and women who would be glad to subscribe to so valuable an organization. Subscriptions or donations will be gratefully received by the treasurer, Miss Alice Severens, Olive street, or by the secretary, Mr. T. M. Cook, 316 Grand avenue, or by any member of the board.

LILLY FREEMAN.

The Girls' Home.

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I have received many inquiries in regard to the Stray Girls' Home, as it is called, and if you will allow this explanation a place in the columns of your paper you will greatly oblige me.

PLAN AND OBJECT OF THE HOME.

The home we are about to establish, especially for young girls, will be an unsectarian, Christian home, intended to reach all classes that need help—those that are penniless and friendless, and need assistance—and the refractory and unmanageable that may be committed from the courts, giving us legal power to hold them under restraint till we can bind them with cords of love to a better life. Also a class of young girls that today are unwilling prisoners in our houses of ill fame, asking God to help them break the chains that bind them, and find, as they look out on this beautiful earth, "no hope" written over everything.

The citizens of Southern California who, by their generous contributions, have said such a home shall be established here, will rear a monument that shall reach from earth to heaven. The first round of the ladder will be, "Go and sin no more;" the last one, "Come, ye blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you." Yours truly,

MRS. H. A. WATRON.

"ROWENA!"

Is pre-eminently adapted for suburban homes, and a continuation of the West Los Angeles street car line will soon reach this beautiful tract.

Onward, ever Onward,
Rolls the Tide of Progress
To the Country-side.

"ROWENA"—LOVELIEST OF SPOTS FOR THE REST OF MAN after the busy toil of daily labor. Each under his own fig tree, was the sum total of the ancients' happiness, and now is offered to the weary and the rest-seeker land which will enable him to be where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary can rest in the eventide.

Not on the glaring plain, unsheltered by the leafy protectors of the Great Creator's handiwork, but under the bough-laden trees, with the fruit heavy on the branches, for shelter from the wind and protection from the heat and refreshment for the parched spirit.

Specially has the owner of this paradise divided up his land so that each may have his acres and his fruit—his earthly comfort and his daily rest—within a pleasant walk or drive from his seat of toil.

'Tis not covered with the ever-present orange groves, but with the lovely peach, apricot, apple and pear-bearers. Now are the trees laden as none ever were exceeded.

"ROWENA!"

Visit this tract, resplendent in its glory of fruit and blossom, shaded with rows of cypress; not of a month's propagation, but of the growth of years, sheltering from the wind and the sun as did the gourd of Jonah shelter him as of old. They will not wither in the night, but will ever, on this soil, maintain their strength and increase year by year in their beauty.

"ROWENA"

Is not surpassed in its loveliness by any property at Pasadena, Sierra Madre or elsewhere. It is fanned by the breezes of the ocean in the eventide and is lit by God's sunlight over in the day. Buy acres at

"ROWENA"

And live content and happy. There is no drawback to

"ROWENA."

Every want is supplied that man can desire—sunshine, ocean breeze, pure water, best ground. You need not till the soil; you can look on while the earth sends forth her plenty. All other tracts are but as the STARS, but THIS TRACT IS IN COMPARISON AS THE HEAVEN ITSELF THAT LIGHTS THE STARS.

"Flowers, the first luxury that Nature knew,
In Eden's pure and guiltless garden grew."

HYDE PARK!

Look where you will in the vicinity of the city of Los Angeles, in search either of lots or acre property, for charming homes, and the best judgments will be convinced at a glance as to the difficulty of finding a location for a town so beautiful, such pure and bracing air, and smooth, rich lands as characterizes Hyde Park. This splendid townsite is located on the line of the California Central, of the A., T. & S. F. system, which is to connect Los Angeles with the new harbor at La Ballona, and is distant 7½ miles from the center of the city; a midway town between the city and the harbor. Trains are to be running through the tract by July next, when great business activity all along the line will be the order of the day. Liberal-sized lots, 60x189 feet, fronting on sixty-foot avenues, are offered and being taken rapidly at $100 each; $40 cash, balance $10 per month, without interest. Such terms give the present purchasers a good opportunity to make money in the rising values that must follow the effects of the harbor and railroad developments. Particularly desirable are the 5 and 10 acre villa lots surrounding the town. Conveyances leave the office at 1:30 p.m., to show parties the beautiful property.

A., and Julia Ward Howe, secretary, publish a circular asking all women who favor woman suffrage to unite with the sisters in the East in holding a festival in Boston, beginning December 12th and ending December 17th. The object is to provide funds for the general work. They appeal for contributions from all the States.

NEW YORK is still worried over bridge-jumpers, and Assemblyman Hamilton has introduced a bill providing that "any person who shall jump or drop into the East River from the New York and Brooklyn bridge shall be guilty of a misdemeanor." This was all that was needed to spur on the bridge-jumpers. A more effective way to stop the practice would be to make bridge-jumping entirely free and legal.

THE San Diego Union, discussing the subject of lynch-law, goes straight to the heart of the matter thus:

"Lynching is not so much the result of the reckless haste of the people, as the result of the unhealthy uncertainty and delay of the law. It is only such uncertainty and delay of justice that stimulates honorable citizens into using wrong methods to right ends. Lynching is illogical, dangerous, and to be condemned, but so is the cause. Remove the cause, and there will be less lynching, more law, and fewer criminals at large.

Here's a State of Things!

Matrimonially speaking, Arizona is said to be in a chaotic and teetotally torn-up condition. Prior to the birth of the late Fourteenth Legislature the laws relating to marriage were void of complication, and, so far as the law itself was concerned, no errors were made therein, but, from the very day of the organization of the Fourteenth Legislature, there has been a shadow of uncertainty overhanging everything in the shape of usage or law within its province or jurisdiction. The Tucson Citizen says: "It is common report that the Marriage Law has been changed, and that parties desirous of entering that state are required by a new enactment to procure a license from one of the county officials, probably the Recorder, but if such law has no existence on our statute books beyond mere report, we are not advised of the matter; and if there be such law, the public are as ignorant of the fact as they are of the date when this amendment became a law. Several Protestant clergymen in this county, and likewise several justices of the peace, have since this reported legislation united people in marriage, but whether in accordance therewith, or in violation thereof, not even the law-makers can say. The Catholic clergy in this diocese have, however, been forbidden to perform the marriage ceremony pending the settlement of the present chaotic condition of this particular law. This certainly is the wisest course to pursue, but it is doubtful if judge or clergyman could be successfully prosecuted for any violation of the law as a whole, or any part thereof. Applications for license to marry have been duly made to the County Recorder, but as he was and is yet without authority to act in such matters, he could issue none. The Board of Supervisors have made a demand for a copy of the new law, if there be one, and this point settled, the ecclesiastical and judicial mills can grind out marriages in accordance therewith."

The Rights of Mother and Child.

The San Francisco Argonaut, just at hand, contains the following sensible argument concerning a case which has lately stirred up the public of Los Angeles a good deal:

"The contest of Porter Ashe with his wife, for the possession of a girl babe 2 years of age, is not reconcilable with any idea of gentlemanly and honorable conduct. If the pretext is that the custody of this girl should be taken from the mother because for any reason she is not to be regarded as its safe and natural protector, then for the same and a hundred other and better reasons the father should not be preferred to the mother. The true guardian of the child is its grandmother, the widow of Judge Edward Crocker, and with her is where every right-minded person would place it. With family dissensions we seldom interfere. In family disputes that are not made public the press has no right to interfere. The press has no right to expose family skeletons. But when the husband and father, he being a prominent citizen, takes the initiative in proclaiming his domestic grievances by abducting from his wife her child, the public may indulge a rightful curiosity by inquiring whether the life, history and conduct of this gentleman justifies him in the course he is pursuing; whether he can complain that in the matrimonial contract entered into by him anything was withheld from his information or hidden from his knowledge; whether he can find justification in any endeavor to expose the secrets of a home, which, if they exist, were made possible by his absence from it in horse-racing; whether, as a gentleman living upon the generous indulgence of his wife and her family, he has maintained inviolate the honorable relations which it is the duty of all gentlemen to preserve, when by marriage they enter a wealthy family, being themselves entirely impecunious and dependent. If Mr. Porter Ashe cares for the good opinion of honorable folk, it will be regarded by him as a friendly act when we suggest to him that he is himself on trial before a very wise and very impartial tribunal, viz., that of intelligent public opinion, a very high court, from which there is no appeal, a court which is not governed by written codes and formulated statutes, nor from the consideration of which any testimony is excluded for technical objections; a tribunal whose best members do not deny they entertain prejudices, who do not pretend that there are not certain laws, such as humanity and gratitude, obligation for favors, recognition of domestic relations, that throw over the wife the mantle of the husband's charity, and around her the shield of his chivalrous defence, and over his home the security of a watchful vigilance that defies the obtruding spies of slander and defamation. These best members of society's high court think a mother should not be robbed of her female babe except under circumstances of cruel necessity, and can find no condition of domestic affairs that gives to the husband the right of acting in the rôle that Mr. Porter Ashe has marked out for himself. The solution of this problem is an easy one—that is, easy if Mr. Ashe is seeking the welfare of his child and is not endeavoring to secure future pecuniary favors for himself. Let little Alma be turned over to her grandmother, and let her natural love be trusted as bonds for her safe-keeping and her good behavior."

Disappointed Albuquerque.

Albuquerque, N. M., is mad. The town subscribed $500 to get itself written up in the Overland Monthly, and expected it was going to have a regular booming old real-estate puff. Now that the magazine containing the much-looked-for chapter has arrived, the owners of corner lots and suburban plots find to their dismay that it is a well-written paper on the history, archæology, scenery, sociology and other abstractions of the place, and not a word is said about the seductive charms of Jones's subdivision or Tompkins's business frontage. The write-up would be all correct if it were not so infernally high-toned, and literary, and far off from the-greatest-bargains-of-the-Nineteenth-century standpoint. Poor Albuquerque! She asked for bread and she got an archæological dornick. After all, the best and most practical way to advertise a town is to patronize the home papers. Just think what a heap of blowing the Albuquerque press might have done on that $500, which has been wasted in literary frills!

A CORRESPONDENT of the Richmond Dispatch, in discussing Virginia's financial problem, presents some interesting statistics concerning this shrinkage of values. There was, he shows by the census, a loss of taxable values in Virginia, between 1870 and 1880, of $56,984,782; in New Jersey of $52,350,610; in North Carolina of $104,657,042; in Lancaster county, Pa., of $27,064,860; in Albemarle county, Va., of $4,363,832; in Loudon of $1,462,101; in Fauquier of $1,797,143; in Rockingham of $2,318,448; in Washington county of $1,649,837. This shrinkage in values, the writer holds, has been exclusively in the agricultural wealth of the States and counties named, and has been as great between 1880 and 1887 as it was in the whole ten years preceding 1880. The selling price of purely agricultural land in the counties has recently gone down, the writer asserts, fully one-half, and in many sections of Virginia it is difficult to sell it at any price.

Kindergartens.

A very entertaining article, descriptive of a visit to the kindergartens, the "baby schools" of this city, is contributed to today's TIMES by Miss Freeman. There are two of these schools in successful operation in this city, and a third is seriously talked of. The influence of these institutions is all for good, and they should receive the heartiest encouragement. It is so much easier to make upright and useful men and women by commencing their training at the very threshold of life that we wonder lawgivers have not thought more of the subject and legislated more to that end. The ways of the kindergarten are so enticing that they lure the little ones into good habits and right thinking, and make virtue more attractive than vice.

It Is Well to Be Careful.

A gentleman who is level-headed on a great many questions, and who is to be relied on even in such uncertain matters as weather prognostications, puts in a vigorous protest to THE TIMES. It is against the reckless driving of the fire engines on the streets. He says that it is not worth while to kill a woman or a baby or two in order to get to a fire in a hurry. Better let a building go than to take a human life. Of course, there is a happy medium in these matters. The engines must hurry when they go to a fire, but with streets crowded as are those of Los Angeles, there must be the utmost caution in driving. Let the Chief of the Fire Department lay down some proper rules to his subordinates, and a catastrophe may be avoided.

IT IS good to find even one man in this broad land who rises up and says a good word for the universally be-joked and derided mother-in-law. A San José contemporary calls attention to the fact that an attorney in a divorce suit in Oakland said in open court that the mother-in-law in the case, the mother of the wife concerned, "ought to be put in jail, or something else done to put her out of the way," and the crowd of idlers cheered the remark. "This reforming attorney," says our indignant and dutiful son-in-law of San José, "is quite a Herod in his way. Why not kill all mothers as soon as their cares and anxieties and sleepless nights and affectionate solicitudes have brought their daughters up to a marriageable age? Any hog of a husband can soon find his wife's mother to be a nuisance." Sure enough! And yet how few are disposed to look at the matter in this light? Give the mother-in-law her dues, boys. Your own wife may be a mother-in-law some day.

THE San Francisco Call announces arrangements for receiving exclusive copyright cables from the New York Sun, Tribune and Evening Post, besides a special cable letter from London. This is in addition to the reports of the California Associated Press, the New York Associated Press and the Western Associated Press, and the reports of special bureaus in New York, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans, Louisville, Omaha, Kansas City and Denver. The Call is a great paper for news, and always has been. It receives an average of 14,520 words of telegraphic news daily, and its bills run to $10,000 a month, which it boasts exceeds the accomplishments of any other newspaper in the country outside of New York city.

IN discussing the Interstate Commerce Law the Washington Star says: "The railroads are conducting their campaign against the Interstate Commerce Law with great ingenuity and audacity. They savagely assail every interest exposed to their power, and say: "It is the new law, which hits you; cry out against it; repeal it!" Experience will probably show that the law needs some amendment, and a modification in the long and short haul clause may be found necessary. But nothing short of impartial observation of the working of this clause, under the regulation of a disinterested commission, can establish the fact."

CHICAGO is benefiting already from Republican municipal rule. Twenty-eight low-class saloons, reported again and again to Carter Harrison as the resort of Anarchists and blacklegs, have been closed by Mayor Roche and a score of others, against which the evidence was less conclusive, have received ultimata which it will not pay them to disregard. Los Angeles took her Anarchists and blacklegs in hand in good season by establishing a high-license law, which works like a charm.

PACIFIC COAST.

More Bodies Recovered from the Nanaimo Mine.

Over Sixty Corpses Still Remaining in the Death Pit.

The Slayer of Pedro Castro Charged with Willful Murder.

Later Accounts Confirm the Story of Death and Disaster Caused by the Recent Earthquake in Mexico—A Mining Boom at Tucson, Ariz.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NANAIMO (B. C.), May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Twenty-five bodies of whites and ten of Chinese were brought up today at the mines. The fire is nearly extinguished. There is nothing but funerals at all hours. Ten undertakers are busy day and night. The bodies recovered today looked well, and these men died from the effects of after-damp. One man wrote on a timber in the mine:

"Thirteen hours in misery.
"(Signed) JOHN STEVENS."

Below was written: "1, 2, 3 o'clock." On another timber was "3 o'clock." A lot of writing appeared in Chinese. Over sixty bodies are yet in the mine. The explosion drove a rock weighing three tons a distance of five yards in the bottom of the mine.

FUNDS FOR THE BEREAVED.

WALLA WALLA, May 8.—The Mayor has issued a proclamation asking citizens to subscribe for the relief of the Nanimo widows and orphans. The Statesman and Union are getting up a subscription. Considerable has been subscribed.

THE EARTHQUAKES.

Gov. Torres Confirms the Reported Havoc in Mexico.

NOGALES (Ariz.), May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The earthquake last Tuesday created sad havoc in the northeastern portion of Sonora, Mexico. This portion of the State is far from railroad or telegraphic communication. The following dispatch was received here today from Luis E. Torres, Governor of Sonora:

"HERMOSILLO, May 8.—The earthquake caused terrible damage in Montezuma, and destroyed several villages, but those in the northeastern part suffered most terribly. Oputo had all its houses destroyed, and nine persons were killed. Bahispe was utterly destroyed, and 150 people were killed. Houses were leveled to the ground. A new volcano appeared, and its eruption destroyed all the timber and pastures of the adjoining valleys and mountains. Further details are expected hourly.

"LUIS E. TORRES."

The volcano mentioned in the dispatch is in the famous Sierra Madre Mountains. In this place a pretty severe shock of earthquake was felt this morning.

MORE SHOCKS AT TUCSON.

TUCSON, (Ariz.), May 8.—From one to two slight shocks of earthquake have been felt daily for several days, too slight to cause alarm. There is no doubt that nearly every high mountain in Southern Arizona has, to a greater or less extent, had its topography changed, but as far as can be learned there is no active volcano among them.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 8.—The government today received its first information regarding the disastrous earthquake on the 3d inst., at the town of Bahispe, in the district of Montezuma, Sonora, by which 150 persons lost their lives. The earthquake occurred at 3:50 p.m. At the same time volcanic eruptions began in the neighboring mountains, lighting up the summits for a long distance. The prediction is made here by local scientists that Mexico is about to undergo a general seismic convulsion, and recent records of earthquakes show that there is a widespread volcanic activity from one end of Mexico to the other.

EXTENSIVE FIRES ON THE MOUNTAINS.

LAREDO (Tex.), May 8.—Passengers arriving on the Monterey train report that great fires are raging on the summit of the mountains, in many places on both sides of the road. Whether these fires have any connection with the recent earthquake disturbances in Arizona and New Mexico is not yet determined, as the tops of these mountains are almost inaccessible.

THE KILLING OF CASTRO.

Streller Charged with Willful Murder by the Coroner's Jury.

RIVERSIDE, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The Coroner's jury in the case of the shooting of Pedro Castro on Friday, brought in a verdict of malicious and willful murder against Streller. Streller has given himself up to the officers at Perris, claiming that the shooting was done in self-defense. As the murder was committed close to the county line between this county and San Diego, the officers doubt whether he will be tried in this county or at San Diego. The officers at Perris hold the prisoner and will not give him up to the San Bernardino officers till that point is settled. An examination will take place tomorrow at Perris. The friends of Pedro Castro, the murdered man, are liable to take the law into their own hands should a chance occur during the examination, as there is a strong feeling against Streller.

Railway News from Santa Ana.

SANTA ANA, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] A large force of tracklayers are now laying the track below Arlington, on the Riverside, Santa Ana and Los Angeles branch of the Atchison system. Chief Engineer Perris is authority for the statement that a construction engine and tracklayers reached Rincon last night, twelve miles south of Arlington and twenty from Santa Ana. At this rate trains will reach Santa Ana by June 15th. Information of a reliable character reaches here that the road will be immediately constructed through to Los Angeles via Buena Park and Fulton Wells. These are new towns recently laid out by the railroad company, with depot facilities, hotels and parks.

A Mining Boom at Tucson.

TUCSON, May 8.—Owing to the heavy shipments of ore from this section the merchants have subscribed $3000 to build sampling works, which will be erected immediately. If the output of ore continues, these same parties will erect large smelters. Quite a boom is commencing in mining circles, and more ore is being taken from the mines at present than at any time during the past twenty years.

Sewerage at San Luis Obispo.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, May 8.—Col. Waring, who arrived here this morning, has spent the day with the city trustees and city engineers inspecting the town, with a view to deciding on the most practicable method of sewerage. The City Council will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening to consider the matter, at which time Col. Waring will give his views and submit plans.

Boycotted Beer.

READING (Pa.), May 8.—The fifth convention of Philadelphia and Reading Railroad employés was held here today, and about 100 delegates, representing every department, were in attendance. Quite a number of grievances were presented, but their nature and the action taken on them could not be learned. A resolution was unanimously passed authorizing the boycotting of beer manufactured by the Philadelphia Brewers' Association.

A Diamond Thief Caught.

CHICAGO, May 8.—A mulatto named Harry Ward, alias Diamond Harry, who has been under surveillance of the detectives here several days, was arrested tonight. He had just pawned a $1500 diamond ring for a trifling sum, and had on his person several hundred dollars' worth of other jewelry, supposed to have been stolen. The police suspect Ward of being connected with the recent diamond robberies at Washington, New York and Albany.

Dr. McGlynn at Boston.

BOSTON, May 8.—Dr. McGlynn, of New York, lectured to a large audience in the Boston Theater tonight upon the "Cross of the New Crusade," and met with a hearty reception.

Editor O'Brien at New York.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The Umbria did not arrive today in time to cross the bar. She was not sighted until 6 o'clock, and owing to foggy weather anchored. Editor O'Brien is on board, and immediately after landing he will proceed to Canada.

THE BALL FIELD.

The Pioneers Defeat the Altas—Another Game to the Haverlys' Credit—A Player's Mishap—Eastern Contests.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The game of base-ball here today between the Altas and Pioneers drew the largest crowd of the season. Scores of vehicles surrounded the diamond. Mulee and McLaughlin, and McMullen and Carroll constituted the batteries for the two nines. The Altas were first to bat, and made four runs, batting McMullen freely. The Pioneers did not make a run until the fifth inning, when they made one, adding three more in the seventh. The Altas made four in the first inning, one tally in the third, three in the sixth, and one in the eighth, winning by a score of 9 to 4. It was a heavy batting game, Mulee only putting out two men, and McMullen six.

SALINAS, May 8.—Johnson & Riordan's, 22; Old Missions, 13.

STOCKTON, May 8.—A. & G.'s, 8; San Francisco, 3.

A PLAYER INJURED.

MERCED, May 8.—El Capitans, 24; Turlocks, 17. George Clements, second baseman of the Turlocks, met with an accident during the game. He came into collision with another player while making first base and broke his left leg. The spectators made up a purse of $55 for surgical charges.

SANTA CRUZ, May 8.—Watsonville, 21; Santa Cruz, 9.

EASTERN GAMES.

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—Louisville, 4; St. Louis, 6.

CINCINNATI, May 8.—Cincinnati, 6; Cleveland, 7.

THE HAVERLYS WIN A GAME.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Over 4000 people witnessed the game of base-ball this afternoon at the new California League grounds, between the Haverlys and Greenhood & Morans. The game was a very interesting one throughout, brilliant pitching and running being made by both sides. After close playing, the game resulted in a victory for the champions, who scored 6 to Greenhood & Moran's 4.

THE OAKLANDS DEFEATED.

At the Alameda Base-ball Park a game took place between the Damianas and Oaklands, and was won by the former, who scored 6 to the Oakland's 3.

A Peculiar Accident.

NANAIMO (B. C.), May 8.—Yesterday morning, as a construction train was coming into Port Moody, a large boulder fell, striking an axle of the rear car, throwing it off the track. An Italian, who was standing on the forward platform, was pitched headforemost off the car and run over and killed instantly. The Italian laborers are inclined to be hostile over the affair, and, like the Chinamen, will not listen to reason, preferring to believe that the company caused the rock to fall on purpose. Two other workmen were slightly injured.

The Schooner Champion Ashore.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—A dispatch to the Merchants' Exchange states that the schooner Champion, forty-two tons, which plies between here and Albion, went ashore at the latter place today and became a total wreck. She was owned by H. Wetherbee, of this city.

Wounded, but Not Killed.

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.), May 8.—W. B. Slaughter, the wealthy cattle and land-owner, of Socorro county, who was reported shot and killed last Friday, is not dead, but is seriously hurt. His assailant has not been captured.

Beheaded by a Train.

AUBURN, May 8.—F. Diers, lately from San Francisco, was beheaded by a freight train this afternoon. He had been drinking of late, and it is believed that he suicided.

LONDON, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] At the opening of the American Exhibition tomorrow the Grenadier band will play American and British national airs, after which Archdeacon Farrar will offer a prayer. Lord Ronald Gower will deliver an address of welcome, and Sir Charles Russell will reply. Miss Lillian Nordica will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Rule, Britannia."

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS.

VIENNA, May 8.—A crowd of peasants, incited by agitators, today attacked the Jewish quarters in a Moravian village. The peasants, who were armed with farm implements, brutally assaulted the Jews. Troops were sent from Prereau and succeeded in quelling the riot.

TWO COLLISIONS AT SEA.

A Bark and a Steamer Sunk—Five Italians Drowned.

HAVRE, May 8.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The French steamer La Bretagne, Capt. Dejousselin, from New York April 30th, arrived here at noon today. She reports that during the night she collided with and sunk a Norwegian bark. The crew of the bark were saved.

The steamer La Champagne, which sailed yesterday morning for New York, and which afterward returned, having been in a collision, was run into by the steamer Ville de Rio. The latter steamer sank, but her crew and passengers were saved. The collision caused a panic among the Italians on board the Champagne, who made a rush for the lifeboat, and capsized it, five of them being drowned, in addition to three sailors who had tried to prevent the rush. The steamer Ville de Bordeaux rescued fifteen Italians clinging to the capsized lifeboat.

The last-named collision took place about noon in the fog. The shock was so violent that the Champagne was thrown almost completely over upon her starboard beam. A wide hole, two yards long, was opened in the larboard side, near the poop, just above the water-mark. The captain, finding it impossible to return to port, ran the steamer aground on the bar, and saved the lives on board.

SHOOTS AT AN EDITOR.

A Burglar Takes a Crack at Harry Patton.

This morning at 2 o'clock a man was seen by one of the Tribune printers walking around in the Fountain saloon, at No. 24 South Spring street. Night Watchman McCullough was notified and went to the back of the saloon, thinking he would have a better chance to catch the thief. The officer left Harry Patton, city editor of the Herald, to guard the front door. Just as McCullough crawled into a back window the burglar made a rush for the front door, and Patton ordered him to stop. Instead of obeying the command, he took a shot at Patton through the glass door. He then broke the glass and jumped through. Patton had no weapons except a knife, which he threw at the burglar, and then rushed into the Brunswick and procured a pistol. When he got out McCullough appeared on the sidewalk, and the two started after the man, who was running up Franklin street. Each one took a shot at him, but missed, and he made good his escape. The fellow was seen to enter the saloon, and had been in the place about twenty minutes when McCullough put in an appearance. He did not get away with anything, as he was watched all the time.

A BUTCHER-KNIFE

And Some Ugly Work That Joseph Madden Did with It.

A workingman named Joseph Madden and a stranger were fighting at 8 o'clock last evening, in a saloon on First and Alameda streets, when a saloon-keeper named J. Lenert happened along and attempted to separate them. In the scuffle Madden whipped out a butcher-knife about eight inches long and made a lunge at Lenert. Lenert caught the blade with his right hand and had his fingers badly cut. Some one called for the police, and Officer Aubel rushed into the saloon. He found two of the men still scuffling, and marched them to the City Prison. Madden was locked up, and a charge of assault with a deadly weapon was put against him. Lenert was allowed to go after Dr. Baker had dressed his wounds. The man who was fighting with Madden could not be found.

A DISPUTE

Which Led to a Fight and an Arrest.

Bad whisky seemed to fill the air yesterday, and all the toughs in town sucked in more or less of it. Fights and rumors of fights were the order of the day. Early in the afternoon Joseph Patterson and a fellow named Sullivan got into a dispute in a coffee saloon, on Aliso street, and began to fight when they could talk no longer. Patterson was getting the worst of it, when Deputy Constable Arguello put in an appearance and placed him under arrest. Sullivan made his escape, but Patterson was taken to the County Jail and locked up.

CHICAGO, May 8.—[By the Associated ress.] A special to the Inter Ocean from w Orleans says: "Several colored con-egations of the Baptist churches of this y have long made it a practice to baptize embers in the Mississippi River at certain lected points, both in the upper and lower strict of the city. The swift current of e river has always made the custom more less dangerous, but the chances of mishap ve, until today, been thought to ve been reduced to a minimum the care exercised in select-g a place for the ceremonies where ere was shallow water. Today, however, accident happened at which seven are nown to have been drowned and ore may have been lost. Mount Zion aptist Church has been baptizing its con-rts at a spot where there is a large wharf tending into deep water. This morning e congregation gathered at the spot for e usual ceremonies. A large crowd ssembled on the wharf, and in the midst f the exercises the railing surrounding it ave way and fully fifty people were pre-ipitated into the river. ### THIRSTY GOTHAM.

The Excise Law Rigidly Enforced—The Germans Excited.

NEW YORK, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] New Yorkers went thirsty today. The opinion of the corporation counsel, as rendered last week, announced that res-taurants were restrained by law from sup-plying guests with liquor at meals. This decision carried terror to the average hotel man, who had hitherto felt that the blue-laws would not touch his privilege. The hotel bars were all closed. Beer, wine and other drinks were not sold in any of the hotels. Cards were distributed in all the leading hotels yesterday afternoon, an-nouncing that the bars would be closed today. This had the desired effect. The guests laid in a supply of the needful to carry them over the day. Fewer drunken men were seen on the streets than on any Sunday for some time.

At the weekly meeting of the Manhattan Temperance Association, in Masonic Tem-ple, today, M. M. (Brick) Pomeroy spoke of the Sunday blue-laws. He thought that the passage of the Carter Bill by the Legisla-ture was an outrage. The Cooper Union mass-meeting last night to oppose the blue laws, he said, showed the power of the liquor interest, and it needed a check. Mayor Hewett was praised for enforcing the Sunday law.

The German singing societies met again today. It was reported that a committee of three had visited Albany, and had notified the Committee on Cities of the Legislature that the future political action of the Ger-man element depended upon a settlement of the excise troubles in a satisfactory man-ner. The Carter Bill was said to be the re-sult of the committee's work.

THE HAWAIIAN QUEEN.

She Visits Boston and Is Cordially Received.

BOSTON, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] Queen Kapiolani, Princess Liliok-alani and others of the royal party arrived in this city this afternoon, and, accom-panied by a committee of the city govern-ment, proceeded directly to the Parker House, where they are quartered. The Queen remained at the hotel until late in the afternoon, but the Princess and Gen. Dominis attended the Park-street Church in the forenoon. About noon Mayor and Mrs. O'Brien called at the hotel and paid their respects to the Queen, and Adjt.-Gen. Dalton called to present a letter of greeting from Gov. Ames. Her Majesty attended services in Trinity Church at 4 p.m. in com-pany with the Princess, and at 6 a select party dined at Parker's. This evening the Princess and other visitors witnessed the performance of the oratorio, Golden Legend, in Music Hall. Col. Boyd was shown the city sewerage system, in which he appeared greatly interested. The individual mem-bers of the party were entertained in various ways by members of the city com-mittee.

A YOUNG LADY KILLED.

A Niece of Senator Blackburn Shot by a Companion.

LEXINGTON (Ky.), May 8.—[By the As-sociated Press.] A terrible tragedy took place this morning near Spring Station, on the farm of Capt. James Blackburn, ex-Secretary of State, and brother of Senator J. C. S. Blackburn. Miss Henrietta Black-burn, accompanied by her cousin, Henrietta Hempstead, a young lady of 19 years, went out to shoot at a mark with a small rifle. They were accompanied by Samuel Black-burn, a young man of 22, brother of Henri-etta Blackburn, and a friendly contest began as to who should shoot first. The three en-gaged in a playful struggle for possession of the rifle, and in the struggle the weapon was discharged, the ball piercing the heart of Miss Hempstead and killing her instantly. The unfortunate young lady gave a slight scream, dropped on the grass and breathed her last before her horrified cousins realized the awful calamity that had befallen. Messengers were hurried off for medical aid, and it was with the utmost difficulty that Miss Blackburn and Miss Hempstead's mother could be restored from the shock oc-casioned by the unexpected and terrible death of the young lady. Miss Hempstead was a general favorite.

A FARMERS' BOON.

Chief Signal Officer Greely to Issue Weekly Bulletins Giving Valu-able Data to Agricultur-ists—Crop Reports.

By Telegraph to The Times.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—[By the Associa-ted Press.] Gen. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, has arranged to issue, beginning with today, a special weekly bulletin, with a view to promptly placing before the pub-lic each Monday morning reliable informa-tion relative to climatic indications in the agricultural districts of the country. It is believed that these bulletins, containing de-ficiencies or excess relative to temperatures and rainfall during the growing season, will serve as a reliable basis for determin-ing conditions favorable or not for the growing crops.

The weather-crop bulletin for the week ending Saturday, May 7, 1887, says: "Slight deficiencies in the rainfall for the season are reported from Central and Southern California. The season to date in various sections of the country has been about as follows: In the grain regions north it has been comparatively cold and dry; in the cotton regions to the west of Georgia, warm and unusually dry; in the cotton and rice regions on the South Atlantic coast, cold and comparatively dry; in the tobacco re-gions of Virginia and North Carolina, cold and dry; in the tobacco regions of Ken-tucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania, the weather has been warmer, with rainfall slightly less than usual, except in Northern Kentucky, where the rainfall was slightly in excess. From reports received it appears that the meteorological conditions of the past week have had the effect of rapidly ad-vancing the season in those sections where it had been previously retarded."

CROP PROSPECTS.

CHICAGO, May 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The Farmers' Review will print the following crop report for last week: "Rains have been beneficial to winter wheat in all States reporting this week, but more is re-quired to give that crop and spring wheat more rapid growth. Seeding of spring wheat is completed and in many instances the crop is above ground and promising well. The average of condition of winter wheat in fourteen counties in Illinois, re-porting this week, is 88 per cent. Reports on the condition of spring wheat are begin-ning to come in. DeWitt county reports an average condition of 110 per cent; Fulton and Stark 90; Steph-enson, 100 per cent; Whiteside, condition backward; and Woodward, condition good. The general average of condition of winter wheat for Indiana counties reporting this week is 87 per cent. The condition of win-ter and spring wheat in Iowa is reported as fine, but the acreage is small. The condi-tion of spring wheat is good in nearly every report. The condition of winter wheat in Kansas on the whole is not prom-ising. In Kentucky the condition of the crop is quite satisfactory. The same may be said of Michigan, with the exception of Berrien county. In Minnesota winter wheat is in fair condition, but spring wheat is not above ground yet. The prospects in Mis-souri are very good for a full crop of winter wheat. Winter and spring wheat in Ne-braska are in fairly good condition. More rain is still required. The average condi-tion in Ohio is rather low. The condition of the crop in Wisconsin, and also in Dakota, is fair. Meadows and pastures are improving, but in many localities rain is needed.

Mosher, Quincy, Ill.; A. S. Durston, Syracuse.

A Wealthy Coon.

J. H. Calvin went into the darky saloon on Los Angeles street last evening, and being pretty well "under the influence," began to sling his cash around rather reck-lessly. This excited the cupidity of some of his white brethren present, who determined to get some of Calvin's filthy lucre. One fellow got hold of a $20 piece and gave him back a half-dollar piece, but some others present compelled the would-be thief to return the money. A colored man then got Calvin out on the street, and called Police-man Cates, and together they got the man to the station, and locked him in a cell. When searched he had $82.50 in his posses-sion, which would have been a good haul for the night vultures, who would have captured it from the drunken man had he not been put beyond their reach.

A Tough Rough.

At Santa Monica, yesterday afternoon, a Los Angeles tough assaulted the bar-keeper at the Beach saloon, at the west end of the coaster. An officer near at hand tried to arrest the disturber, but he fought like a tiger, and the officer was obliged to call for assistance. A crowd gathered, and excitement ran high, but a man at hand, by driving a buggy into the midst of the fray, scattered the crowd, and the officer, with the help of two or three citizens, secured his man and marched him to the lockup, in spite of his struggles to get away.

Fighting.

A lot of men were in a saloon on Aliso street near the livery stable last night, about 10 o'clock, when a row occurred, and a man giving the name of John Lumison struck an old man named Almon in the mouth, causing a copious flow of blood. All parties got outside and the old man struck back and a general fight seemed imminent, when Officer Cates stepped up and arrested the two and took them to the station, where they were booked for fighting. They were released on depositing $20 each for their appearance to answer.

Collision.

About 7:45 o'clock last evening the Stevenson House 'bus was driven up in front of the hotel, and the driver went in, leaving the horses untied. They took advantage of this for a little run, and on First street, a short distance from the corner, came violently in contact with a sprinkling hydrant on the edge of the street, throwing the horses onto the sidewalk, and breaking the pole and front part of the 'bus by the force of the collision. No further damage.

Will Fix 'Em This Morning.

About half-past 11 o'clock last night a call came to the station for two officers to come to the Stevenson House to quell an incipient riot. On arriving there they found everything quiet, but the proprietor of the house claimed that the saloon on the corner had been making more disturbance than the law allowed, and declared his in-tention to swear out a warrant this morning to settle the affair. As all was quiet, the policemen could do nothing in the case.

Sold Whisky to a Girl.

S. D. McLennon, who keeps a saloon on Alameda street, was arrested yesterday afternoon, by Officer Arguello, for selling whisky to a 15-year-old girl. He has been before the Police Court several times, and the officers have been watching him for some time. Capt. Tyler fixed his bail at $50, which he gave. The case will come up before Justice Austin this morning.

Undelivered Telegrams.

There are messages at the Western Union telegraph office, 17 North Main street, for the following persons: Mrs. G. C. Burn-ham, J. G. Burt, P. J. Columbet, John C. Dexter, Stanley P. Jewett, M. M. Kittell, Mr. Vernon.

Wanted It for Crazy Quilts.

[Indianapolis Sentinel.]

Gov. Gray was one of the most astonished persons ever seen for a few moments yes-terday afternoon. Among the sight-seers at the new State Capitol building were two nicely-dressed ladies, who, after meeting the Governor and being shown through with a great deal of courtesy, stopped before one of the beautiful lambrequins, which cost something over $300, and both modestly re-quested that they be permitted to cut "just a small, little piece," as they were both making "such lovely crazy quilts," and they wanted so much to have some of that lovely material in them. After the ladies had somewhat hastily departed he said in conversation that it was remarkable what some people would ask for. Only recently he was asked to mail some of the ground of the State House yard to a man in Illinois, who stated in his letter that he had a little dirt from the grounds of every State House in the Union except Indiana. He got the dirt.

And Siebert Is Dead.

[Oakland Tribune.]

The Carver brothers, who murdered the unfortunate colonist, Siebert, have had the remains buried in a handsome casket, and will now proceed to adopt resolutions of re-gret, a copy to be forwarded to the family of the deceased and published in the local press. In Bakersfield, we are told, these gentle pistolers are held blameless, except for a certain lack of caution which older and more experienced men might have ex-ercised. In fact, in the Bakersfield view, they have learned a valuable lesson, and, having made every reparation in their power, they should be regarded as perfect gentlemen. And Siebert is dead.

High License at Santa Monica.

[Outlook.]

The Santa Monica license law took effect Monday, and over $3100 were paid in the first day. Seven saloon licenses were paid, amounting to $2100. Two more saloon-keepers have signified their intention to pay the license. This cuts the number of saloons down to nine, seven closing up. The full amount of the licenses will amount to over $4000.

The Trade of Marriage.

[National Review.]

The usual retort, when women complain of want of remunerative employment, is that they should not work, but find men to support them. As there are 500,000 more women than men in England, it is ob-viously impossible that every woman should have a husband. This state of things is as bad in Germany also. The preponderance of the women over the men is greater in the professional and upper middle classes. Among the richer aristocracy of England, and the absolutely working people, the sexes are still equal in number, and women can still marry. But the sons of clergymen, officers, civil servants, lawyers, doctors and some of the country gentry find the struggle for existence too great in the kingdom. They emi-grate or leave the country by joining the military or naval service. Their sisters all remain at home, unable to find husbands, and, uneducated for work, even domestic work. These "superfluous women" most undoubtedly, as a body, perform the first duty of their sex—that of being charming; they are often handsome, and are generally well-mannered and well-dressed. They are "charmers," but there is no one to charm. They know very well that their chances of marriage are almost nil; therefore, should a solitary suitor, without even a modest competency, appear, they feel driven to ac-cept the first man who asks them, whether they care for him or not, and most gen-erally they do not. Their parents wish to get rid of them, so they marry without love. An evil arises out of this, more ghastly than can be described. The marriage of convenience is a recognized social institution abroad. In England, in this nineteenth century, the women of the upper-middle classes adopt it without ac-knowledging it. However we may affect to deny it, there is a vast amount of mar-ried unhappiness in all classes. The fault is sometimes ascribed to the present degen-eracy of women, and sometimes to the de-terioration of the men. The fault really lies in our social system, which gives a woman neither work nor money, and obliges her to sell herself before she has lost her only salable commodities, youth and beauty. As there exists four "superfluous women" to one man, the female has no choice, while the lordly male has the greater number from whom to pick and choose.

DEATHS.

BURDICK—In this city, May 7, 1887, of apoplexy, Horace Burdick, aged 56 years and 6 months.

Funeral from the family residence, No. 23 Second street, today (Monday) at 1:30 p.m. Friends invited without further notice.

BUSINESS TOPICS.

Bethune.

The most beautiful and accessible town yet put upon the market, consisting of 220 large lots, each having an abundant supply of pure water.

It is situated immediately between Alham-bra and Ramona on one side, and the Raymond Hotel and South Pasadena on the other, as well as some of the finest hotels all around it. The tract is quite level, yet still high enough to afford the most perfect drainage.

The new railroad to Long Beach is to pass through, with a depot on this tract, and it is only a few minutes walk from street cars for Pasadena, Alhambra and the Raymond.

The price of lots will be placed very low, compared with adjoining property, in order to give our customers the benefit of the raise.

This tract will be placed upon the market on the 16th of May. Come early to avoid the rush. Russell, Cox & Co., agents.

Rosecrans. $20 Down, $5 Per Month.

The best savings bank, "The Rosecrans Tract." Why? Because you can get beauti-ful lots for $50 on the installment plan. Re-member how Pasadena, Monrovia and other places sold at the start, and what they are worth today. The Rosecrans tract is better than them all. It occupies 1200 acres in a di-rect line of the march of Los Angeles to the sea, only four miles from the Ballona. Rose-crans Improvement Co., rooms 8 and 9 Wilson block.

Notice About Burbank.

Forty-three lots advertised as for sale in block 101, town of Burbank, are entirely fic-titious, as no such numbered block is located in that townsite, and any one having lots for sale at $150 each in Burbank will probably find ready purchasers for all they have by apply-ing at the office of the Providencia Land and Water Company, Spring street, opposite Na-deau House.

Cement.

The Los Angeles Storage Commission and Lumber Company, San Pedro street, near Third, are doing the largest business in cement of any concern in the southern part of the State. Being agents of Davis & Cowell, the heaviest importers of cement in the State, and having superior warehouse facilities, they can sell cement as low or lower than any other dealers, and will not be undersold.

Burbank.

Forty-three lots, 50x179 feet, at $150 each. These lots are in one of the finest locations in the town, being in block 101, lot 1, on Provi-dencia avenue and Second street. The books will be open Monday, May 9th. If you want your choice call early on owner. George W. Booth, 134 North Main street.

Notice.

There is no block 101 in the townsite of Bur-bank, and if any one has books to open for the sale of lots in that town at $150 each, they can probably save themselves that annoyance by finding ready purchasers at the office of the Providencia Land and Water Company, oppo-site Nadeau House, Spring street.

Come and See This Today—10 a.m., 2 p.m.

THE PREACHERS.

"FREED BY THE SON, FREE INDEED"—BY DR. PENDLETON.

A Strong Discourse by Dr. Fay Before the Unity Congregation—Young Men's Christian Association Meeting—The Salvationists in a Tent.

In the services of the Central Baptist Church Dr. Pendleton took for his text, X John, viii. 36: "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

The founder of the Christian religion was condemned to death on the sole charge of calling himself the Son of God. This was the only real count in the indictment—"He made himself the Son of God"—thereby claiming equality with God.

The resurrection of Jesus from the death-state confirmed the truth for which He innocently died, and most emphatically declared it (see Romans, i, 4). Of Himself He here declares, and in anticipation of that all-attesting resurrection, "The Son abides forever." Then follows that notable two-fold guarantee of positive knowledge of the truth and of personal freedom by the truth, contained in verse 32: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Our Lord's Jewish auditors were proud boasters of their freedom. They very naturally resent the implication of bondage. "We are Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man; how sayest thou, ye shall be made free?"

They are calmly met with a proposition so self-evident that they are silenced: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, whosoever committeth sin is the slave of sin."

Now follows what may be called the personal liberty bill of gospel grace. "The Son abides ever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

Here is our special theme for today: Freed by the Son! Free, indeed!

First—Made free: If mankind have one creation right that is positively inalienable, it is the right to be free—mentally and morally free. Creative goodness and power respects this right, and coerces none. The power and forces of evil, by infernal mandate, trample this right under foot, subjugating every one to an awful servitude. Man is not in nature free.

The implication in our text is that of enslavement. The allusion is to the bondage of sin, as we have seen. "Whoever commits sin is a servant, a slave of sin." It is significantly asked: "Know ye not that his slaves ye are to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey?" Another scripture phrase is: "Sold under sin." "Led captive by Satan to do his will" is another.

A monster fact in this world's history is sin. Sin is a perfect monstrosity; a most unnatural thing, as it respects man. God never created man to sin. Everything that has being, Satan excepted, is against sin; everything in nature, everything in heaven, everything in earth, everything in hell, and everything in our own being is against it—aye, and against it in the strongest possible denunciations.

O that man would see this! Sin has no countenance given it anywhere, no excuse for it in anything, no palliation of it from any source. It has nothing in extenuation from any quarter—without or within, past or present, now or in the future. It has no defense, no apology, nor any, even the slightest, expectation of right and lawful recognition, whether in this world or the world to come. Yet man sins, and only man! Why is it? It can be rationally accounted for only on the ground that man has been sold into bondage to sin; in the yoke with sin; than which nothing can be more unnatural or cruel.

Nor can anything be more delusive than this thraldom. We see our fellow-men—the men of the world—in this bondage, and on being urged to escape from it by fleeing to the Christ, they complacently talk of not 'surrendering their liberty." Deeming themselves free, they refuse to be freed. Sin's yoke is always of iron-cast, though often dipped in some bright solution, gilding over the iron. It is said of witless Saxon serfs of old that they used to fondle their gilt-washed iron collars of Norman servitude, regarding them as badges of honorable distinction. Mankind is in love with sin, and refuses to see and sever the unnatural connection. So deluded are we till light dawns.

Second—Freed by the Son: What is the gospel but a blessed proclamation of freedom from the bondage of sin? The world's great emancipator is Jesus Christ.

Recognizing man's right to be free, He came to achieve it, did achieve it, and wide proclaims it: "Liberty for captives bound!" Prophetically defined, His mission is to "open prison doors," to "break the chain of bondage," to "set captives free." His first act and word in the ministry of truth was at Nazareth. On that occasion he read these and kindred words of ancient prophecy, applying them to Himself.

The gospel of the Son of God is emphatically an evangel of liberty. Who will look into it shall behold in it man's lost birthright restored. In prophetic psalm is it written of him: "Then I restored that which I took not away."

Glorious heraldry! Freed by the Son!

"He breaks the power of reigning sin;
He sets the captive free."

Freed by the Son! He broke His way through every barrier into the prison-house of our mortality, lighted up its darkness, shattered our chains with one blow of His prison-stained cross, opened wide the portals and made us free—free from the power and dominion of sin.

Third—"Free indeed," says our text. Free indeed! Not in name, not in mere fancy, but in fact. The true free-thinkers of the age are Christ's freemen.

Men may proudly boast, and talk with scornful inflection of "freedom from religious shackles." Here in this "personal liberty bill" of gospel grace, and only here, is it assured. "Free indeed!"

It is created manhood's right to know his Creator. The sceptic's altar, like that one at Athens, is "To the Unknown God." To them He is "the Great Unknowable," so shackled are they in their so-called "free-thinking." Not so with Christian freemen. They both see and know Him, materialized in the incarnated Son.

Next to a God unknown, unrecognized, is an unapproachable God. In this "free indeed" of the gospel charter of liberty is freedom of access to the God revealed and known.

Again: In this "free indeed" of the Christian's bill of rights is freedom of oneness and of use. The available God! "Surely our fellowship is with the Father and with His son, Jesus Christ." A God of invaluable use and benefit is our God.

Free indeed! O if ever Satan steals to his own vile use and purpose the "garb of heaven," it is when he wraps around him the flag of seeming starry light and prates of freedom to men enslaved in sin. "Free!" they cry who decry religion. So cry the buccaneers, the pirates, the lawless rovers on land and sea. Are they free? Free indeed are they whom the Son makes free—God's own freemen, and by magna charta given. O ye men by sin enslaved! be not deceived: heed ye the emancipation proclamation of gospel liberty, and be free indeed. Free to love and honor the God who made you; free to obey the sure impulses of your own religious convictions; free to choose for yourself, in spite of sin and Satan and evil men, the way of right, of truth, of salvation and of heaven. Freed by the Son, free indeed!

CHURCH OF THE UNITY.

Dr. Fay Discourses on Religion and Judgment.

At the Grand Opera-house, though the doors were closed promptly at 11 o'clock a.m., yesterday, Dr. Fay preached to the full-seated auditorium from the text found in Numbers, xxi, 4: "And the soul of the people was much discouraged because of the way."

In Egypt the children of Israel, to the number of hundreds of thousands, were for many generations slaves. The time came when, under the leadership of Moses, their escape from bondage was planned and carried out. But because in their journeyings through the wilderness they were compelled to be without food or shelter, exposed to the inclemency of the weather, and had no time to stop and establish for themselves homes, the souls of this people were much discouraged, and they would fain have returned to the flesh-pots of Egypt, though they were at the time marching forward to freedom and a grand and glorious future among the nations of the world.

This is symbolical of our lives. We are born in bondage—a bondage to incipiency. Reason, conscience, imagination, judgment, all our faculties, are in an incipient stage and must be developed only by long, tedious labor and struggle with the circumstances surrounding us, if we would rise to the higher planes of life, and we sometimes feel inclined to accept the lower grade rather than keep up the prolonged struggle for a nobler sphere of existence. The way out of this bondage to a higher life, to purer and more elevated refinement of life is seldom smooth to any person, and it is only by experience, and often one of pain—of collisions with the laws of nature—that we are enabled to know our surrounding circumstances, and to obtain the best enjoyment of life.

One man will see faults in everything; the weather is too hot or too cold; too wet or too dry; his neighbors are unkind or uncharitable; his business associates are knaves and rogues. The man next door knows nothing of all this. He lets no phase of weather trouble him; he finds his neighbors pretty good; he knows honest men in his business transactions, and, take it all in all, thinks it a tolerably fair world. The first man dolefully chants, "This world is all a fleeting show, for man's illusion given." The second one cheerfully sings, "Happy days are gliding o'er us, and the hours are bright and fair." They live side by side. Why this difference? It is in temperament to a great extent. To some, life is a continual pleasure; to others, a continual conflict of trials and troubles. Some are too easy, and never take care or responsibility. Others do too much worrying. As a rule, a contented mind is not to be desired.

These greatly differing states are, however, no indications of a disordered universe, or of God's displeasure. A man, to succeed in life and enjoy it, must exercise judgment. His temperament must be rightly educated. Conscientiousness is no substitute for a sound practical judgment. A man may say, I have tried to live a religious life and always tried to do right, but yet have failed to get on in this world. It is to a great extent because he lacks intentions. His intentions may have been all right, but his judgment was at fault. A machinist may intend the very best in constructing his work, but if he makes a mistake in placing its parts his machine does not work.

Religion must not be substituted for this practical judgment. We cannot change the laws that are all around us. We may become confused and wrong in our ideas, but the laws remain unchanged. A man may be ever so religious, and it is my business to elevate the religious side of character, but he must not make a mistake in the use of his religion. Religion will not save a man from burning his finger if he puts it in the fire, nor his ship from sinking in a storm if he mismanages the vessel.

Wicked men may heap up wealth, may prosper in all their undertakings, and the worthy man who succeeds poorly may wonder at it and even doubt the goodness of God. It is because the wicked man exercises better judgment in dealing with the laws and circumstances surrounding him. And does the poorer man expect that God will disarrange the laws of nature because of this? And yet he may at the same time be warping his soul, searing his conscience, and be far less rich in mind and heart than the poorer man, and his position is not to be compared to that of the man struggling along under cares and sorrows, who yet has the genuine love and respect of his fellowmen.

The frivolous trials of life may be passed, but there are cases where grief and sunshine are in strong contrast; where tears are shed and hearts are rent till life becomes almost a burden. When a person has lived a life of industry and economy; has saved a competency for old age, and then has it swept away by unseen and not to be foreknown circumstances, or by the treachery of some confidential friend; when sickness comes and takes a loved one from the house; when we see innocent children the victims of poverty and misery; when these and kindred instances may be multiplied by the thousand, is it any wonder that some thus afflicted doubt the very existence of God and His goodness?

And these honest doubters are more to be respected than those who exercise faith through fear that God will do something dreadful if they do not believe. A woman I know who has been deserted by a brutal husband, and left for long years to stuggle for herself and five children. She cannot exercise faith in the goodness of God. She says she wishes she could. Will God cast her off because of this? When the innocent child says to its mother, "I do not like you and you are not good," because she has denied it some request, does she cast that child away forever? Does she not rather clasp it to her breast in the knowledge that sometime it will know that she loves it better than her own life?

So the scepticism of this day is not to be feared, for men will always find that some faith is better than pure reason. The soul that has borne trials is richest in the elements of sympathy and love for others, and in the pleasure of their joys. And it is not all a rough way. Trials are tempered by sunshine and rough paths have smooth places. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." So let us bear the trials and enjoy the pleasures of life with the persuasion that God knoweth best in all things for the sons of men.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

A Practical Address at Armory Hall.

There was a largely-increased attendance at the gospel temperance meeting at Armory Hall, at 4 o'clock p.m. yesterday. Mrs. Lucy D. Moore presided, and, after the reading of scripture and a prayer by Rev. M. M. Bovard, Hon. G. Wiley Wells delivered an address upon the subject for whose consideration the meeting was convened. He spoke of former organizations for the suppression of intemperance, and their work, and how great an amount of progress has been made by the banding together of a number of praying women, as the W. C. T. U., who have committed their case to God, and have done and are doing so much on their own part, trusting in Him to eradicate the terrible evil that rests upon the land. It is useless to speak of the blighting effects of this curse upon lives, families and property, for it has been done by eloquent men, who have personally experienced that of which they spoke.

From reading, observation and consultation with the best minds, I am convinced that this is the greatest sin and curse of the nation and the world. In the annals of crime you willfind that in nine cases out of ten liquor is behind it in some way.

The question is how to meet the evil. Not the worst men are always the most intemperate. Men of generous impulses and high ambitions often fall before the terrible destroyer in all walks of life. There is no doubt that trust in God will do much to assist a man to reform; that when all other means have failed this will carry him through. Young men should have a place to go; should be freed from the temptations which beset them on every side. A young man is now under indictment to be tried in our courts this week. He came to the city, leaving a pleasant home with wife and children for a day. He met companions. They went into a saloon. He became intoxicated during the day and missed the train that should have taken him home, and, going to find the house of a friend, was knocked down, and soon after taken by the police for robbing a house near by, and will be tried for that crime—all through drink. It is not enough to advise men to sign the pledge. We must keep them away from temptation; invite them to our homes if they are trying to reform, and in every way keep watch over them for their own welfare.

The women are most efficient workers, because they are the greatest sufferers in blasted hopes and wrecked homes. The country is awakening to the enormous evil, and these praying women are going out to save the sons and daughters, the fathers and mothers, and the homes from the misery and unhappiness which the curse of drink brings upon them. I am not in favor of high license, but am in favor of every means that can be used to manacle and finally crush out intemperance. Liquor-selling cannot be made respectable by any manner of means. I know of a so-called grocery in this city with a bar behind. I know of boys attending Sunday-schools who steal books from the library, trade them for doves, and sell the doves to get money to buy beer in this vile place. This I know of my own knowledge. I have reported it to the police, and intend to keep on reporting till something is done about it. There are young men working in this city who are watched by detectives paid by their employers, because of their indulging in the vicious habit of drink and visiting saloons. It is not necessary, as some seem to think, that a man must tipple to succeed in business. It is a wrong idea, and business that must be so obtained is not worth the cost taken to secure it. The people are awakening to the importance of the subject, and the day is rapidly drawing near when the saloons will be a thing of the past and temperance will rule the land. It must come when public sentiment demands it, and this sentiment must be educated and stimulated by continuous agitation, by public meetings and writings and every known way, and in the end the triumph is certain and sure.

SALVATION ARMY.

The Tent on Temple Street Opened Yesterday.

The Salvation people opened their big tent, on the corner of Temple and Fort streets, yesterday afternoon, with a flourish of trumpets that brought about two hundred of the wandering element together. There were six members of the army present in the tent at 2:30 o'clock p.m., the time advertised for the army to make a charge on the devil. The advertisement did not seem to have the desired effect, and the officer in command ordered his followers to gather up their brass horns and get out on the street. He led the column, and they marched down to Main street, where they formed, and begun to play an old negro minstrel tune. The holiness band was holding forth in front of the fountain, and several hundred people had gathered around, but as soon as they saw the army charging down Main street, in their bright uniforms, there was a general stampede from the fountain, and in a few minutes the army had several hundred howling hoodlums at its feet. The commander gave the order to march for the tent on the double-quick, and the column turned up Temple street. The army had hard work to keep out of the way of the mob, but the commander is a good walker, and he and his little band were soon under the shelter of the canvas house. The mob followed, and the work of wiping the devil out of existence was begun at once.

The commander opened with an old minstrel song entitled "De Lily of the Valley," and the army took seats on a rough platform which stands at the back of the tent. The singing was very funny. Each member of the army had his own tune, and their chief ambition seemed to be to see who could raise the greatest number of discords in the shortest space of time.

Several new converts to the army prayed and gave their experience.

"Happy Joe" was introduced by the commander as a converted Turk, and, in a peculiar tone of voice and a queer accent, he told how he used "maka-da shoe in San Francisco," but he heard of the army and made up his mind to "licka old devil, an' I licka old devil wherever I goa." Joe wore a broad grin on his face all the time he was talking, and seemed to enjoy the fun he was making.

The commander said he and his comrades had had a very hard time to get a foothold in Los Angeles, but when they saw in THE TIMES that the devil had driven them off he made up his mind to locate a station here or die in the attempt, so they telegraphed to Oakland for the old tent that was used in Stockton, and came back, and they now propose to stay as long as there is an unconverted sinner in the city. He said a great many people believed the Salvation Army to be a new thing. In this they are mistaken. It was organized in London, England, over twenty-two years ago, by Rev. William Booth. At that time Mr. Booth was pastor of a flourishing Methodist church, and in going to his church on Sundays he had to pass through the roughest part of London. He knew that the poor degraded creatures never heard the Word of God, and he made up his mind to preach to them. He opened on the street corner one Sunday, and met with such success that he decided to rent an old theater near by and hold services every evening. He found that he was doing good, and talked to the deacons of his church, and asked them to help him, but they refused and wanted him to give up his dirty, greasy congregation. This he refused to do, and went to the Church of England for assistance. That church also refused to help him, and he made up his mind to cut loose from all denominations and establish a church of his own. Six very wealthy noblemen came to his assistance and furnished him with all the money he wanted, and he had to draw on them for large sums, as he did not have a cent himself. General (as he is now called) Booth and five of the noblemen are yet living, and are as active as they ever were. The army has 1800 stations in various parts of the world and 6000 officers. During the past nine years they have established stations in seventeen different countries, and are now preparing to make a descent on China. The official paper of the army, the War Cry, is printed in fourteen languages, and, with the twenty-two other weekly newspapers published by the army, is circulated in every part of the world. He claimed that Gen. Booth has under his command 2,000,000 soldiers, and 35,000 in the United States. In Oakland they have established a home for fallen women, and are doing a great deal of good. They have established several training houses, where officers are educated for their peculiar work. The army is under instructions to make converts and attract people to its meetings, by any means. "If I can't get people here in any other way," said the speaker, "I will order my soldiers to walk on their heads. If we can't get a crowd by being respectable, we will take another course." He announced that he would have to return to the army headquarters, in Oakland, in a few days, but that he would leave Staff Captain Parks (a sallow-faced young man who has quite a history) in charge. The army will hold forth every evening for some time, and they will try to drive the devil out of Los Angeles.

Y. M. C. A.

Meeting Addressed by Delegates from the East.

The Y. M. C. A. and the delegates to the twenty-seventh annual convention, which will convene in San Francisco this week, gathered at the First Congregational Church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The eastern delegation arrived in this city yesterday, and decided to spend Sunday among the orange groves. About 300 people congregated at the church, and the regular Sunday afternoon services were gone through with.

L. F. Hatch, of Kansas City, conducted the services. Mr. Hatch is one of the most active members of the Y. M. C. A., and he gave a general outline of the business done by the association during the past year. The association is becoming very strong on this coast, and has made wonderful strides during the past twelve months.

The association orchestra of this city furnished some good music, and a general good time was had.

Last evening the deelgation divided and assisted the services at all of the churches, except the First Presbyterian.

The delegation will leave for San Francisco this afternoon by the 1:30 train. Maj. Hardy, who was in this city last summer, is a delegate, and will return to Los Angeles for a few weeks after the convention adjourns.

The Bay Front Murder.

[San Diego Sun.]

There is little if anything new in the way of developments tending to throw light upon the murder brought to light by the finding of the body on the water front, near Twenty-second street, Sunday last. The body of the deceased was stabbed seven times—six times on the right side and once on the left side. There are now, it is said, indications that the unfortunate man may be Robert Hunter, who formerly came from Gallup, N. M., and who had a squatter's-cabin claim on the water front, near the barracks.

Hunter has been missing for several weeks, and when last seen he was going out fishing in the bay with a man who lived with him in his cabin. They also had a dog in the boat. It is alleged that the man and dog returned without Hunter. Coroner Risdon yesterday brought to the officers a pair of shoes and stockings belonging to the body, and besides the tobacco found in the pockets he also has in his possession a knife and a key also found in the overalls pocket. The key, which seems to fit the door of Hunter's cabin, is attached to a redwood tag or stick, which has, however, no marks upon it. There are suspicions now existing that the murderer will be located soon, and if so his arrest will follow at once.

Why We Grow Gray.

[San Diego Union.]

In our editorial columns yesterday we spoke of San Diego "with many strings to her bow." It appeared this morning "with cowslips strung to her bow." There is a paradise of bloom all over our county just now, and we do not know how to account for this strange transformation, except that in the luxuriance of our climate the abovementioned flower might have taken untimely root, even between the types. But the flowers that bloom in the spring had nothing to do with this case.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Deadly Nuisance.

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Whoever may ride by the once beautiful Bliss place, upon Alameda street, can there view a most loathsome and threatening nuisance. The trees are simply alive with the deadly white scale and not a single effort, apparently, is being made to disinfect, or in any manner to prevent the rapid multiplication and spread of the awful scourge. No more fruit can possibly ever again be borne by these trees, and they should promptly be burned up right where they stand. A few armfuls of straw about the body of the tree, a little coal oil sprinkled thereon, and a match applied, will disinfect them most thoroughly, and at an expense of not exceeding 10 cents per tree. There may be other neglected orchards in this city requiring similar treatment. There are, or ought to be, state laws and city ordinances covering such cases, and no time should be lost in enforcing them. Will our authorities make an effort to do their duty? A. F. KERCHEVAL.

As to Mr. Chaffee.

Mr. Chaffee, capitalist, has called at this office to impeach the correctness of a local paragraph which appeared in this paper on the 27th ult., and also in The WEEKLY MIRROR of the 30th ult., to the effect that he (Mr. Chaffee) had been "pulled" by the heartless police for drunkenness. Mr. Chaffee admits that he was "run in," but protests that he was not drunk on whisky at the time. He does not drink whisky, he says, and, per consequence, it cannot be true that "whisky is the only thing he takes pleasure in spending money for." He says he had only been indulging in a little wine on the occasion referred to. This important distinction the reporter failed to make, thus putting Mr. Chaffee, capitalist, in a false light before the country. Mr. Chaffee asks the editor of THE TIMES to set him right in this matter, and he deeply regrets the publicity given to his little faux pas.

Headquarters.

HEADQUARTERS DEPT. OF ARIZONA, LOS ANGELES (Cal.), April 30, 1887.

General Court-martial Orders, No. 20.

The records of the garrison court-martial convened at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., per post orders, No. 76, 1887, in the case of Trumpeter Granville Laypole, Troop K, Fourth Cavalry, tried for failure to pay debts due the post trader and the troop tailor and for other offenses, and sentenced "to forfeit to the United States his pay for one month, and to be confined under charge of the post-guard for the period of one month, the first and last seven days to be solitary confinement on bread and water diet, and the intermediate days at hard labor," having been received at these headquarters for the supervision of the department commander, the proceedings, findings and sentence are disapproved and set aside, under paragraph 919, Army Regulations, as amended by General Orders, No. 42, headquarters of the army, 1882, and the decision of the Judge-Advocate General, approved by the Secretary of War, as published in circular from headquarters, Division of the Pacific, dated May 18, 1882, and the sentence will not be executed. The department commander is averse to allowing the establishment of a precedent which would convert private indebtedness of a soldier into a military offense, where the contracting of such debts does not directly affect the service nor impair military discipline, and would tend to multiply the number of cases to be tried by garrison courts.

By command of Brig.-Gen. Miles:
M. BARBER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPT. OF ARIZONA, LOS ANGELES (Cal.), May 3, 1887.

Special Orders, No. 50.

1. In accordance with Special Orders, No. 95, current series, headquarters of the army, the commanding officer Ft. Grant, Ariz., will send John Robinson, late blacksmith, Troop E, Tenth Cavalry, under guard of a non-commissioned officer and one private, to the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing, Kan., designated by the Secretary of War, for the execution of so much of the sentence in his case as relates to confinement.

2. The journey of Capt. J. H. Dorst, Fourth Cavalry, from Albuquerque, N. M., to Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., performed October 17 and 18, 1886, under the verbal instructions of the department commander, is approved as necessary for the public service at that date, and not intended to be understood as in conflict with telegraphic instructions of March 26th, in regard to issuance of orders involving mileage.

By command of Brig.-Gen. Miles:
M. BARBER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

GRINS AND BEARS IT.

The State Board of Equalization in Santa Ana.

[Santa Ana Standard.]

Messrs. Moorehouse, Dunn and Sloss, three of the State Board of Equalization, were in town on Tuesday, sounding the people upon their assessment the present year. We presume they obtained a variety of opinions, but the only cause of dissatisfaction they could hear of was the enormous disparity between the values of real estate this year and last. Property which was assessed last year at $50 and $60 per acre, this year goes from $500 to $600 per acre. The sudden bound in prices is what frightens the people, yet they cheerfully admit that the property is readily worth it in cash, and is as good as a government bond at that. The same rule applies to town lots. They yield no revenue, and are really a source of expense to the owners who keep them clean, but they are gilt-edged cash property, and the Assessor says they must be assessed at something like a fair cash value. A piece of land or a town lot is better than a mortgage at 10 per cent. Yet the latter is assessed at the par value and a howl of indignation is raised if real estate is listed at half its fair commercial value. The board are traveling over the State to see for themselves if there is any injustice done in any of the counties, and talk and act like fair-minded men. They see that our assessments are "away up," but they also see that our land is in the same fix, so they grin and say "What are you going to do about it?" and we, in return, look disgusted, and tell them all we want is uniformity all over the State if the whole country is to be confiscated for taxes. They interviewed us and we looked sad, broken-hearted, as we told them our assessment had been tripled, and thought perhaps we might pose as a martyr before them, but Moorehouse asked us in such a winning way what was the least cash price we would take for our land, that we immediately put it down to about three times as much as we were assessed, thinking he wanted to invest in a great bargain, but he smiled the same way and remarked that perhaps we were not groaning under an exorbitant assessment. He had us there pretty badly, but our love for truth gave us away, so we got out of it by telling him that down here we have an assessment and a selling price on our property. We don't see any remedy for our impoverished Santa Ana capitalists under the present assessment, for the equalizing board did not appear to have a particle of sympathy for the valley, and we wouldn't wonder if some of them invested in corner lots before they went away.

The Herald Knows Holt.

[Santa Ana Herald.]

The Riverside Press fires this whopper at the gullible public: "Wonder is expressed at the small amount of oranges shipped this season from Riverside. One prominent cause of the shrinkage is the number consumed by the tourists. We have had many thousands more of tourists here this season than ever before, and they have used at least 100 carloads of oranges." Holt has long been noted for drawing the long bow. His newspaper yarns are generally so far removed from the truth as to excite ridicule by their extravagance. "Many thousands more of tourists" and "100 carloads of oranges" consumed by them is enough to excite a smile of derision from those who know Holt, and many who know that the falling off in the Riverside crop was really caused by the oranges being frozen, so that they were unfit for sale.

Ashes to the Ashes.

[Pomona Daily Times.]

Los Angeles would feel lonesome without a sensation or scandal once or twice a week. The latest appears to be the Ashe case, and the columns of the dailies each day contain from half a column to a column and a half of matter relative to Porter Ashe's baby. Porter and his wife have agreed to disagree, and in future sleep between separate pairs of sheets. The trouble seems to be whether the baby is to sleep with papa or mamma. At present mamma has a little the best of it, but papa is no slouch, and threatens to make things lively in court soon.

Rosecrans $50 Lots.

You don't have to go sixty miles in a sage-brush country to pay high prices for poor lots, when you can get the finest lots in the county, with water, for $50, on the installment plan, only six miles from the city. Rosecrans Improvement Company, Rooms 8 and 9, Wilson Block.

ESSAY NUMBER 8.
—CONCERNING—
CLAREMONT!
THE BEAUTIFUL.

There is enough of true merit in the superb climate of Southern California, enough to praise in the magnificent scenery and the remarkable fertility of the soil, to make it quite unnecessary to resort to foolish expressions or misstatements of any character. CLAREMONT, the beautiful new town on the Santa Fe route, midway between San Bernardino and Los Angeles, possesses all the requirements to make it the leading suburb of Los Angeles — the mountain home, the place of rest, the sanitarium. Why? This can be answered in person by you in a day or two, for the trains will soon be running past its sunny hills. Look carefully at all the new towns, and then examine the peculiar attractions of Claremont. Located at the foot of the picturesque San Antonio canyon, it monopolizes the only good view of that grandest of our mountain peaks, "Old Baldy." The pure water, the inviting pools teeming with brook-trout, can only be reached easily from Claremont. Below us, some 400 feet, is Pomona, nestled in a valley as lovely as that of Cashmere, and as fruitful as that of Egypt.

The panorama from Claremont is not equaled in California. Our water supply is the very best. We are the very center of the great artesian belt. The Claremont Water Company pipe us water under 100-foot pressure.

Our soil is the most productive in California. Mortal eye never looked upon roses, strawberries, apricots, peaches, plums, oranges or lemons more perfect than those of Claremont.

We are authorized to state that commutation tickets will be sold to Claremont residents at very low rates at once upon the opening of the railroad.

This week, "The Manchester," an exquisite hotel, will be begun. The most picturesque cottage on the line is now building; a bank building contracted for. The railroad company will make their depot grounds a park. The depot will be an artistic building, calculated to please the class of residents that are sure to make Claremont their home. The Pacific Land Improvement Company take pride in Claremont as their first town. The street-grading and general improvements are going on rapidly. Visit the property. Make an investment that will pay you 100 per cent. in a few months.

Call at the office of the Pacific Land Improvement Company and buy the lots from first hands.

DEPARTURE.

RARE CHANCE.

I intend to leave Los Angeles in the month of May and am desirous of disposing of the following property on or before that time:

FIRST—My residence, No. 405 Temple st.; two-story house, 11 rooms and cellar, finely finished and built in the most substantial manner; good stable and outhouses; grounds nicely improved; lot 50 feet on Temple st.; 150 feet deep; also 47½ feet on Bunker Hill ave. by 199½ feet, with 20-foot alley; house completely furnished and in fine order. Also, one of the finest carriage teams in the city; carriage, phaeton, harness and fittings complete. This is a great bargain for parties wanting a complete and well-located home, ready for occupancy.

SECOND—Two lots on Temple street, opposite Olive street; graded; good location for business or fine residence site.

THIRD—Three lots in block 2, Park tract, close to business; two lots in block 8, Park tract, near Ostrich Farm road; five lots in block 10, Park tract, nice locality and near Temple-street cable road; ten lots in block 11, Park tract, joining Angeleno Heights tract; A SPECULATION; corner lot in block 13, Park tract, fine view, a choice lot; eight lots in block 14, Park tract, well-situated and good view; seven lots in block 17, Park tract, near Temple-street cable road, graded streets; ten lots in block 18, Park tract, fine locality, streets graded, lots level; one lot in block 22, Park tract, 150 feet from Temple street, a bargain; also, 75 lots in the Beaudry Water Works tract, on Alameda street, near railroad depot, excellent location for business, warehouses, etc.; three fine new cottages in healthful locality, magnificent view and only two minutes' walk from business center and horse-car lines, for sale at a bargain; one lot in Ocean View tract, and two in Washington tract; these will be sold cheap.

Owing to my departure, I am offering the above at prices considerably under the market value and on terms that will be easy.

For prices and conditions call at my office,

In Los Angeles, Divided Into Only

1300 LOTS.

PRICES OF LOTS:

Up to 100 ft. Front, $150; Half-acre Lots, $200; From 1-2 to 1 Acre, $300; From 1 to 4 Acres, $400; 5-acre Lots, $750.

TERMS—One-fifth cash, balance in eight equal monthly payments, without interest. These prices will continue only until June 1, 1887, when they will positively be advanced. All who purchase before that date will have the benefit of the advanced prices.

The entire tract is beautifully situated, with a charming view, pure air and water and perfect drainage. The Ostrich Farm Dummy Railroad runs through the tract, with a five-cent fare guaranteed to and from the center of the city. This road will be completed to the tract July 1, 1887. Pure and abundant water will be piped thro' all the streets.

The title to the property is absolutely perfect. A complete abstract will be kept in the office of the company for the inspection of all purchasers, and a certificate of title will be furnished to each buyer with his deed.

This tract is situated upon the hills, which are rapidly becoming the most desirable residence portion of the city. The soil is a warm, sandy loam, free from frost, being in what is known as the warm belt. The elevation is such that the temperature is more even than in the city.

NOTE—The first purchasers have first choice. Free carriage to the tract every day from the office of the agents, at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Maps and circulars and all information can be had from

ON THE DIAMOND.

LOS ANGELES VS. COLTON AT THE SIXTH-STREET GROUNDS.

Pretty Bad Scoop on the Indianapolis of the Pacific—Score 14 to 3—The League Game at Santa Monica—Notes.

The sporting fraternity had a lively time of it yesterday between the game here and at Santa Monica. The Sixth-street grounds presented quite a lively scene. There was a much larger crowd present yesterday than on last Sunday. The game was very exciting, and some good playing was done. The "cyclone" battery proved a good one. The double plays between Mathews and Kier and Hartley and Kier brought forth unbounded applause from the spectators.

Clark made some fine assists, as also did Coffman, and were ably supported by George.

Coffman carried off the batting honors for the Los Angeles team, and Koacher for the Colton Athletics.

The wonderful playing of Koacher, the short-stop for the Coltons, was cheered by the spectators.

Monroe did not play on accout of the sad news of the death of his mother.

The following is

THE SCORE.

Harry George did some fine coaching, and made the only home run.

BASE HITS.

Koacher, of Colton, is a dandy.

Young's smile, when he was fooling the boys, was great.

Manager Turner, of the Los Angeles Club, will arrange the stand so it will be more roomy in a few days.

Notwithstanding other attractions, the Sixth-street grounds still holds its own, and yesterday saw the largest crowd of the season there, the fair sex being out in force.

It is expected the Coronados, of San Diego, will soon play the Los Angeles Club on the Sixth-street grounds. They are an excellent club, having some eastern professionals in their ranks.

Manager George S. Turner has ordered from Buffalo, N. Y., something of a novelty in score cards, window-hangers, etc. The score cards will have a photograph of each of the players in the team.

The members of the Southern California League are the following strong teams: Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Pomona, Colton and San Diego. The games promise to be very interesting.

The games to be played by the Los Angeles boys and Santa Monica team next Thursday at Los Angeles and Sunday at Santa Monica will no doubt be very interesting. Lots of interest is being manifested, as the strength of the two teams can then be determined. Both clubs are very confident.

Williams, the new fielder of the Los Angeles Club, is a good one and promises to take the lead in batting. Sunday he hit very hard, but in bad luck.

The Los Angeles will shortly leave on a trip, opening the new grounds at Pomona, Colton and San Diego.

The Los Angeles Club is trying to arrange games with the Pioneers and G. & M., and it is to be hoped that they will succeed in doing so, as lovers of the national game are anxious to see what the southern champions will do with the northern clubs of the California League.

The Los Angeles Club is deserving of the patronage of the very best people, as it is the only club in the city that does not allow any intoxicating liquors sold on the grounds. The management has refused several good offers for the privilege, but will not allow it on the Sixth-street grounds.

AT SANTA MONICA.

A large and enthusiastic crowd greeted the Peck & Ruggles and the Tobin nines at Santa Monica's new and commodious grounds yesterday, it being the opening game of the season for the championship of Southern California. The game, though one-sided, was a decidedly interesting one. The grounds are beautifully located on the hill facing the Hotel Arcadia and but a few yards from the depot. The fitting up of the grounds is first-class, everything possible for the comfort of the patrons of the "great national" at Santa Monica being thoroughly arranged.

The playing of the Tobin nine showed that they have been benefited by the practice of the past week, and their few errors compelled their opponents to earn their two runs, or be treated to a dose of goose-eggs. Farrel, for the Tobin nine, rather surprised the spectators with his masterly command of the sphere and close watching of the bases. He throws a speedy ball, which proved very effective in yesterday's game, striking out fourteen men. This gives him a record for one day's work surpassed by few of his many rivals at twirling.

Morelock supported him in elegant style, and, taking them together, they are the finest battery ever seen in Southern California.

Knell also twirled an excellent game, but a few scattering hits were made off his delivery, until the sixth inning, when the boys in gray seemed to get onto his delivery and pounded him all over the field.

Farrel opened the inning with a single, followed by Noonan for a two-bagger, bringing Farrel home.

Durkins hit hard to second for a single, and both he and Noonan scored on English's hit to left.

English crossed the plate on Crawford's short hit to third, Crawford being put out trying to steal second, which ended the ill-fated inning, amid great applause from the spectators.

In the seventh the Peck & Ruggles nine came in from the field slightly discouraged, but with strong intent to retrieve, if possible, their lost fortunes.

Goldy opened up this inning in a satisfactory manner by hitting hard to right field for a base, reached second and came home on a wild throw by Morelock to Noonan, scoring the first run for the Peck & Ruggles, and saving the nine from a coat of whitewash. Goldy was loudly applauded for his excellent work.

The Santa Monica boys scored a few more runs in this inning on Lacey's single, Morelock's double and the errors of Knell and Hill. This ended the run-making until the seventh inning.

In the seventh, Regan, for Peck & Ruggles, hit to center, coming home on Wilgtod's high fly to short, who fumbled the ball. Joaquin's out retired the side and ended the game, giving the Santa Monica boys their first victory on the new grounds.

Following is a summary of the score:

THE SCORE.

Struck out—By Farrel, 12; by Knell, 11.
Bases on balls—Santa Monica, 1.
Passed balls—Hill, 3.
Umpire—Clark.
Scorer—Ramsey.
Time of game—2 hours 15 minutes.

NOTES.

Crawford played a great game at first.

Noonan for Santa Monica and Goldy for Peck & Ruggles, at second, did some very effective work.

Farrel is a "lallah" in the box.

It is rumored that Peck & Ruggles will have a new battery from Sacramento at their next game.

Conn did not do his regular work at the bat yesterday. Farrel proved too much for him.

Goldy wielded the willow in great shape.

Morelock's support of Farrel was immense.

Myers, the substitute, made a great catch in the left garden.

Morelock's throwing to second was a feature of the game.

Regan did good work at third and also at the bat.

Hill's support of Knell was fair, considering that he never caught him before.

Next Sunday the Los Angeles nine will cross bats with the Tobins at Santa Monica.

Messrs. Tobin and Crawford deserve great credit for the manner in which the new grounds are managed.

GAMES THIS WEEK.

Los Angeles lovers of the diamond-field are to enjoy a feast this week. At Agricultural Park, on Thursday, the Greenhood & Moran Club, of Oakland, plays the Peck & Ruggles Club, of Los Angeles. On Saturday the Pioneer Club, of San Francisco, plays the Peck & Ruggles, and on Sunday the Greenhood & Morans play the Pioneers. The San Francisco and Oakland clubs are two of the crack ones of the State, and some exceptionally fine playing may be expected.

"Lots of Gall."

[Pasadena Star.]

The Los Angeles Tribune remarks editorially that that paper is more ably edited than THE TIMES. That's lots of "gall." Even if the Tribune's statement is correct, it would have read much better in some other journal. He who seeks to arrest the attention of the world to apprise it of his superior amount and quality of brain don't know enough to appreciate his own weakness.

Two-dollar Democrats.

[Santa Monica Cutlook.]

The list of $2 voters who supported Lynch for Congress seems to be increasing as the investigation proceeds.

If there is anything nastier than the developments in the Lynch-Vandever contest we should like to know. It is shown conclusively that Lynch's supporters bought votes right and left. But they didn't buy quite enough for Lynch to get there. Hence the contest.

People's Store.

To the public: As we have but three windows in which to show our "specials," and as we intend to give sweeping bargains in every department in our house each day this week, it is an impossibility to display each and all of them in our windows. But if you will kindly note the items in the morning papers and request one of our many floor-walkers to show the department in which those specialties are offered, you will find them as surprising as any we place in our windows.

We will first mention, and that slightly, for if we were to comment on them at length it would require an entire sheet of this paper. "Our lace sale" will be the largest sale we have yet inaugurated this season. The sale comprises oriental laces of widths ranging from 2½ inches to 18 inches wide, and ranging only from 5c. to 25c. The cheapest of these laces are worth at the lowest 25c. a yard and the best as high as 75c. Included are silk Spanish guipure laces from 10c. up to 50c., valenciennes laces from 1c. to 25c. a yard, and others at similar prices. Crowds of people have stood at our window and wondered how it was that we were able to offer such values for the money. We admit this is the first time during our business career that we are able to do so.

As great as any will be our sale of checked nainsooks. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon them, as every lady knows that the cheapest are worth 10c. a yard, and even this being a better grade than usually sold at 10c., they can readily appreciate what a bargain we are offering, when we can make this line at 5c. a yard.

We will have displayed in our south window a line of children's silk and fancy-trimmed bonnets at $1.98. The bare material costs more money than we offer the entire bonnet for. They are worth from $4 to $5 each. A glance at them will satisfy you that such is the case.

During the day we will place on sale, on our underwear counters, ladies' muslin skirts at 25c.—just one-half the price of their real value.

In our dress-goods department we will place on sale several lines of dress goods, which we are desirous of closing out, and if price will do it, we are sure to accomplish our object. They consist, in part, of plaids, double-fold, 38 inches wide, and elegant patterns, at 30c. a yard, formerly sold at 50c. We have also a few pieces of diagonal dress goods, at 6¼c. a yard; sold heretofore at 12½c. Double-fold, 38-inch cashmere, in all colors, at 20c. a yard—surprising at this price.

Corset covers trimmed with embroidery and tucks for 25c. each; worth 50c.

In our notion department we will sell ladies' white sets of collars and cuffs at 14c. a set; we sell them daily at 25c.

8-4 Turkey-red table-covers, fast colors, and will be sold today at 75c. each; other days we sell them at $1.50.

Imitation silk lace parasol covers, in cream, at 65c., worth just twice this price, $1.30. People's Store.

CATARRH!

THROAT DISEASES, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA,

CONSUMPTION,

Together with diseases of the

EYE, EAR AND HEART,

Successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS, M.D.,

M. C. P. S. O.,

No. 275 North Main Street,

A few doors south of the new postoffice, Los Angeles, Cal.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS,

With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold; indeed, he declares that he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another, and oet he is always exceedingly careful; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appears, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat; there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by-and-by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharnyx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best references from those already cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases had better call at the office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address,

NIAGARA AMERICAN SWINDLE.

Object Lesson Suggested to People Who Visit Niagara Falls.

If you will talk with 100 people who have visited Niagara Falls you will find ninety of them still mad at the thought of how they were in some manner swindled, and that the other ten remember the place with disgust because of the extortions practiced on every hand. The swindler and robber arrived at the Falls about the time the first hotel was erected, and he has continued to flourish and grow fat until the present hour. There was a time when he was in the minority; he now runs things to suit himself.

When the great State of New York appropriated $1,500,000 to buy the swindlers out and make the Falls free to the people the hearts of the masses were rejoiced. The purchase took in Goat Island, Prospect Park, and a strip of land a mile and a half long up and down the river above the falls. This made a free park of Prospect, with a free bridge to Goat Island, and the fare across the suspension foot-bridge was reduced to 15 cents, and the trip down the inclined railway to 10 cents.

Then the City Council of Niagara passed such ordinances as were expected to either reform the highway robbers who drive the hacks or force them to leave the place, and the people were called upon to visit free Niagara and enjoy themselves. I dropped off there for a couple of days last month, being very enthusiastic over the reform, and ready to credit the Empire State with any amount of public philanthropy.

To begin with, I will leave it to any fair-minded man if there is a hotel at the place which isn't a swindle when it charges $4 per day? The best rooms are second-class to those of mountain and seaside resorts, and the tables no better than the run of $2 per day houses. To help crush out the hackmen and accommodate the people the State leased the privilege of a street-car line from Prospect Park to the cantilever bridge. It is a long ride for a nickel and at first thought one chuckles over the way the hackmen have been euchred. On the sides of the car is the sign, "To all points of interest." As a matter of fact, it hits but two points. On the dashboards is painted the sign: "To the whirlpool." When I saw it I reasoned to myself that the car ran from the park to the whirlpool. Anybody else would reason the same way. In company with a couple of young boys I boarded the car one morning to go down to the whirlpool. No point of interest was touched. The terminus was a walk of five minutes from either railroad bridge and three-quarters of a mile from the whirlpool. When I asked the conductor to explain he replied that I was expected to foot it the rest of the way. It might not be a swindle to advertise a car from Detroit to Buffalo and stop it at St. Thomas, but some folks would insist that it was.

We had been down to the end of the cantilever, and were on our way back when a hackman drove up and offered to take the three of us back to the hotel for 75 cents. As the distance was a mile and a half, the charge seemed reasonable, but he was inclined to do still better. For the small sum of 50 cents he would take us down to see the whirlpool. I give his words in italic because they were a swindle. The last time I was there the whirlpool was free. One could get out of a carriage and take his view from the bank. This chap seemed to guarantee just such a sight, and we bit at the bait. When he halted, after a drive of nearly a mile, it was at the door of a curiosity store on the bank of the river. Over the door was the sign: "Admittance to whirlpool, 50 cents!" We indignantly backed out, and I blessed our driver for a swindler, telling him that he had deliberately put up a job on us to get his "whack" from the keeper of the store. He made no denials, but independently offered to leave us there and forfeit his 50 cents. His offer was accepted, and he drove away. We footed it up to the bridge, where a delegation of ten hackdrivers awaited our coming. The biggest chap in the lot got down and demanded that half dollar. He was referred to Halifax. Then he proposed to "take it out of our hides," and the nine fellows backing him seemed anxious to help him. Ten Niagara Falls hackmen ought to get away with one peaceable individual and two boys, but they didn't do it. Something was said about our being able to shoot as fast as they could pound, and all but one climbed upon their vehicles and made off. This one said he'd show us a trick or two worth remembering, and he went off after a crowd of his friends. He found several who came down and looked us over as we waited for the car, but it wasn't their day for knocking out. It was only the next day that the City Council sent a complaint to the State Commissioners that the hack-drivers, in spite of all laws and ordinances, were as lawless as in years gone by.

Another swindle is the curiosity stores. You may say that it is not obligatory on any one to patronize them, but at the same time most every visitor feels like carrying away some souvenir or present. Whatever article he pays 25 cents for can be bought anywhere else for 15. Whatever is warranted to him is sure to be a swindle. Whatever he buys for original is a base counterfeit.

Why it is that such a state of affairs has always existed at the Falls, and appears determined to exist there in spite of everything, is a problem. You can't find the equal of it anywhere else in America. The same system, if practiced to half the extent, at any mountain or sea-shore resort, would kill the place in two seasons. There is but one way for a visitor to Niagara to protect himself. Go there with a lunch-basket and a bottle of cold tea. Buy nothing whatever, go to all points on foot, and get out of the place before sundown. You may have your pocket picked, but you will have the satisfaction of believing that the money went to some stranger like yourself.—M. Quad.

A watchmaker says that the multitude of telegraph, telephone, and electric-light wires in large cities have much to do with the variations and stopping of watches which have hitherto been good timekeepers, and that watchmakers are trying to invent some way to provide against this magnetism in watches.

"Joe" Brown and "Bob" Toombs.

Another story I lately heard of [Senator Joseph] Brown relates to his quarrel with "Bob" Toombs, which liked to end in a duel, but which failed because Toombs did not send the challenge. Brown has a great reputation all over Georgia for being a very strict Christian. He has been noted as a temperance man, and he is always to the front in any religious movement. Some of the old women in Georgia expect to see Brown translated some day, and it is said that he can make as good a religious exhortation as he can a stump speech. Well, when Toombs was at one time especially angry at Brown he sent a military friend of his to ask Brown whether there was anything in religion which would prevent him from accepting a challenge.

Brown received the strutting colonel and listened to his question, looking him in the face with his cold gray eye and stroking his long gray beard as he did so. As the colonel concluded Brown's big mouth opened like a trap, and he slowly and articulately said: "I have carefully considered my duty to man and to God. I have canvassed my religious belief and have come to the conclusion that you may tell Gen. Toombs that I can really find nothing either in it or myself that will prevent me receiving a challenge from him at any time or under any conditions. I shall indeed be most happy to oblige him in any way which he shall see fit to ask."

The colonel said good-day and left Brown, and for some time the duel hung fire. During this time it is said that Brown was busy six hours out of the twelve firing at marks with a Winchester rifle, and that he finally got the aim to such perfection that he could snuff a candle about eight times out of ten. Toombs, for this reason or some other, failed to respond, and the matter dropped, but the congressman who told me the above story asserts it as his belief that had the duel come off Brown would have killed Toombs with no more compunction than that he exhibits when he carves one of his enemies on the senatorial floor.—Cleveland Leader.

The Grown-Up Tomboy.

The girl romp, otherwise known as the tomboy, is an eager, earnest, impulsive, glad-hearted, kind-souled specimen of genus feminine. If her laugh is too frequent and her tone a trifle too emphatic we are willing to overlook these for the sake of the true life and exulting vitality to which they are the escape valves; and, indeed, we rather like the high-pressure nature which must close off its superfluous "steam" in such ebullitions. The glancing eye, the glowing cheek, the fresh, balmy breath, the lithe, graceful play of the limbs tell a tale of healthy and vigorous physical development which is Nature's best beauty. The soul and the mind will be developed also in due time, and we shall have before us a woman in the highest sense of the term. When the tomboy has sprung up to a healthful and vigorous womanhood she will be ready to take hold of the duties of life, to become a worker in the great system of humanity. She will not sit down to sigh over the work given her to do, to simper nonsense or to fall sick at heart, but she will be ever ready to take up her burden of duty. In her track there will be sound philosophy, in her thoughts boldness and originality, in her heart Heaven's purity, and the world will be better that she lived in it. To her allotted task she will bring health, vigor, energy, and spirits; these will give her both the power and the endurance without which her life must be, in some respects at least, a failure.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Millionaire's Hobby.

Senator Stanford's $20,000 stable is rapidly approaching completion, and the contractors expect to have it ready for the senator's horses and carriages early next month. The stable is a model one. For months past the senator's representative here has been overrun by cranks and inventors with all sorts of new ideas for the comfort or discomfort of the horses. It has been the hardest thing to convince these people that Senator Stanford is not building a dime museum for the exhibition of freaks or crank inventions. Men who have an idea that horses would be better if they slept in beds have come to Senator Stanford to ask him to put folding beds in his horses' stalls. One man had an idea that the senator wanted to buy his patent fly-driving machine and erect it over each horse to keep the flies off him. Another crank wrote a letter stating that it would be good idea to paper the ceiling with fly-paper, and then the horses would not be bothered. But such ideas were not listened to. There are inventions and improvements in the stable which are great innovations. The edifice is an imposing one on L street. The walls are twenty-two inches thick, being built with a large air-chamber in the centre so as to prevent the least bit of moisture or dampness from penetrating the walls and giving the horses cold. There will be ten stalls, all fitted up in hardwood, elaborately carved and embellished. At each trough is running water, so that the grooms will not have to carry water about the building and slop it over the floor. The arrangement for letting feed down from the bins above is a new invention, and a good one. One of the great objections to having a carriage-house near the stable proper is the odor absorbed. To obviate this, the carriages are run into the stable and on to a large elevator and carried up-stairs to a sealed room, where they will be free from odor or dirt. The stable is decorated in hardwood and is finished in elegant style.—Washington Letter.

one, to be sure, but it was all I had, and I said to myself, 'What would have become of you if your newspaper had been suppressed upon the arbitrary order of some cabinet officer based on his own construction of your editorial utterances?' As I sat thinking I tore up the order I had written. Then I went over to the White House, and showing Seward's letter to the president, told him that I thought the course it suggested would be arbitrary and unjust. 'Pay no attention to it,' he said, and I went back to the war department and pigeon-holed it in my own desk.",—Washington Capital.

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great

THIS NEW ASPIRANT AMONG THE COMING DESIRABLE PLACES FOR

HOMES AND BUSINESS LOCATIONS!

ON THE THROUGH LINE OF THE ATCHISON & TOPEKA RAILROAD,

Presents more desirable points to insure the investor a large profit and future satisfaction than any of the new towns along the road. Climate to satisfy the most exacting, in its freedom from fogs and entire exception from desert winds, so trying in many places. Soil rich, deep, and easily worked. Water supply abundant and to be piped under pressure to each lot. The water right guaranteed and the first right in the San Antonio Cañon. Nearly $50,000 have been expended to bring the cañon water within one mile of this townsite. Streets to be sprinkled for two years under agreement. Streets and sidewalks handsomely graded. Shade trees are being planted on each street.

Under contract with the railway officials, to be made THE MAIN PASSENGER AND FREIGHT STATION for the Pomona section.

A street-car line to be constructed at once to connect with Pomona, about two miles south. Streets now graded through bearing orange, prune, apricot and olive orchards and raisin and wine grape vineyards. The surrounding country all improved by residences and fine orchards.

OVER $30,000 IN LOTS ALREADY SOLD, AND NO WASH SALES. Good residences, costing $2000, $4000 and $6000, now in the hands of the architects, to be built this season. The home of the health-seeker and lover of the beautiful.

Come and see the immense varieties of roses and choice flowers that bloom through the entire year on the premises, unequaled even in this land of bounty and beauty.

TERMS EASY and very reasonable. The next 33 days will see a rapid advance over present prices. Address

California Remedies of Sarsfield Remedies Co.

Sarsfield's Remedy for the Blood and Constipation.
Sarsfield's Remedy for Diphtheria and Pneumonia.
Sarsfield's Chronic Ulcer Salve.

These remedies are well known in Central and Northern California, and are now introduced in the southern counties. The MAKING OF CERTIFICATES has related so largely to fraud that the public has naturally grown suspicious of them. But those here referred to are by such prominent citizens, of such irreproachable character, and the cures are so well known, and the witnesses are so easy to reach, that we make the references without any hesitation:

MRS. H. C. GOODRIDGE, 28 Hawthorne street, San Francisco, 9 years a sufferer from chronic ulcers, and her case abandoned by physicians, permanently cured. Certified to by Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, the well-known philanthropist, and president of the Kindergarten Association, San Francisco.

MRS. M. R. ADAMS, formerly of Sacramento, completely cured at the residence of her brother, Benjamin Welch, master car-builder of the Southern Pacific Company, Sacramento, of running sore on the arm of 8 years' standing, and that had nearly sapped her life.

W. S. DOAN, noted inventor of the steam wagon, Sacramento, 23 years of fever sores, cured in 40 days. Certified to by William Guttenberger, ex-City Trustee, Sacramento; Alex. Neilson, John Driscoll and H. G. F. Root, proprietor of the Union Foundry, and others.

JAMES MCCORMICK, vice-president Bank of Redding Shasta county, 8 years' suffering from worst character of rectal ulcer, permanently cured in 3½ months.

W. A. DEAN, brother-in-law of M. H. de Young, of the San Francisco Chronicle, cured of aggravating piles and fistula in five weeks.

REV. J. T. HUFF, Turner Station, Or. (refers to Rev. Dr. Frost, Sacramento), cured of BLOOD POISONING of many years by use of the BLOOD REMEDY and SALVE. His letter is a remarkably warm indorsement.

We are also permitted to refer to Hon. Ira G. Holtt, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Sacramento; L. A. Upson, Sacramento; A. D. Carvill, of Carvill Manufacturing Company, San Francisco; Judge George E. Williams, Placerville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lux (Lux & Miller), San Francisco; C. B. Corwin, 925 Market street, San Francisco, and a host of others as well known.

These cures have been made by the use of the BLOOD REMEDY and ULCER SALVE, which are HOUSEHOLD REMEDIES, etc., effective in impurities of the BLOOD and diseases of the LIVER and KIDNEYS, CHRONIC CONSTIPATION, PILES, FISTULAS etc.

Manufactured and for sale by the
SARSFIELD REMEDIES COMPANY,
115 EDDY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, and by all reputable druggists. Price, $1 per bottle for the Blood Remedy, and $1 and 50c. per box for the Salve, according to size.

WIT AND HUMOR.

She—"By the way, who is that lady in white you have been so attentive to this evening?" He—"Attentive to! You are mistaken; that's my wife."—Life.

Baby carriages are now made to cost as high as $375 each. This is good for the carriage-makers, but it looks very much like a blow at our infant industries.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Swellington Jones—"Really, my dear, you owe it to your friends to get a new dress suit." Mr. Swellington Jones—"Well, if I do, I shall have to owe it to my tailor."—Harper's Weekly.

"Papa, what is a model?" inquired little Johnny. "A model is a small likeness of anything." "And is a model man a small likeness of a man?" "A great many of them are."—Merchant Traveler.

A Jubilee.—Judge: "Are you aware of any mitigating circumstances in your case?" Criminal—"Yes, your Honor, this is the fiftieth time I have been arrested for vagrancy, and I thought that perhaps we might get up a little jubilee."—Texas Siftings.

"You say you were in Germany six months, and in all that time you did not see a drunken man?" "Not one." "That is remarkable. In what part of Germany were you all this time?" "In jail, pard, in jail. Say, stake a fellow for breakfast, can't you?"—Burdette.

Magistrate—You are old enough to know better than to drink whisky, Uncle Rastus. Uncle Rastus—I kain't help it, yo' Honah. I inherited a tas' fo' it. Magistrate—Inherited a taste for it? Uncle Rastus—Yas, sah. Dat boy Sam o' mine is drunk mos' ob de time.—N. Y. Sun.

"Where have you been, Jane?" "I've been to a meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society, ma'am." "Well, and what did the lady say to you?" "Please, ma'am, she said I wasn't to give you warning, as I meant to. She said I was to look upon you as my thorn—and bear it!"—London Punch.

A brother in Williamsburg, Va., says: "We wish a $2,000-Baptist pastor here who will serve us for $500, and we look to the Religious Herald to find him for us." Any pastor who is now on a salary of $2,000 and wishes to get it reduced to $500 will please send us his address.—Richmond Religious Herald.

"Yes, I am a poor man," he said, as a sad look stole over his expansive countenance, "but that is my misfortune. I ought to have been worth $1,000,000, but an honest man does not have much of a show in this world." "I never entered any." "Ah! you are a professional man?" "No, I am an Anarchist."—Peoria Call.

Jones—"Hello, old man, how do you like married life by this time?" Smith (comparatively new to matrimony)—"First rate! I wouldn't be a bachelor again for a good bit." "Indeed! Why, I understood your mother-in-law was living with you." "O, no. Just the other way. I'm living with her." "Well, that does make a difference."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Scene in Chicago. Two long separated friends meet: "Where is Uncle John living, my dear fellow?" "He isn't living." "What! Why, when did he die?" "He isn't dead." "Good gracious! You said he isn't living, and I infer that he is dead." "Well, it's about the same thing. He moved to St. Louis."—Newman Independent.

Mr. Winks—"Our traveling man, Blifkins, says the thing in San Francisco now is Japanese, not Chinese, house servants. Everybody is getting them.' Mrs. Winks—"They are really good, then?" "Good! he says they are peerless, absolutely without fault." "Dear me, we must get one. It will make that 'Heaven Bless Our Home' motto seem less like a mockery."

"There's one thing I like about you," said Charley's girl to him the other evening. "Each of my former lovers was continually asking me if he was the only one I ever loved. You have never asked me that question." "No. To tell the truth," answered Charley, "the last girl I asked that of rang a chestnut-bell on me, and I have never asked the question since."—N. Y. Sun.

A Washington avenue boy was left with a neighbor while his parents went to see a parade, and overheard the following gossip about them: "It was a love match. They are a most united couple. After all, the right way is to marry for love—" Here the boy interrupted with: "Mamma married papa 'cause she was a fool. She said so!"—Saturday Evening Spectator.

"Are these spring chickens, Mrs. Caterer?" "Yes, indeed, Mr. Carp. They were foaled—I mean hatched—in March." "Where did you get them?" "From Mrs. Rubric—an honest woman and a genuine Episcopalian" "Episcopalian, is she? That accounts for the scant upholstery on these bones. The good woman has compelled her chickens to keep Lent."—Yonkers Gazette.

Rich and retired Socialist—My son, you must give up your reckless ways and not squander the money I earned by many nights on the lecture platform. Son—Give it up? Why, there's plenty of money left. Sire—Yes, but not of yours. Son—Correct; but I and brother Jim have decided that you would not tell a lie, so we are going to divide the family estate in three even parts.—French Fun.

Mr. Doubledonar—O, Yes, Minnie is very accomplished. Why, she sings in French, Italian and Spanish. Mr. De Smythe—Yes, that is very nice; but I should think she would learn some of those pretty English songs that are so popular nowadays. Mr. Doubledollar—Why, that's an English song she's singing now. Mr. De Smythe—Indeed! I thought it was French, Italian and Spanish.—Life.

Wandering philosopher—Yes, my dear sir, I've reckoned up that by walking down-town to my business every day I have saved $300 in the last ten years. Indifferent fellow (who always rides)—and your health is better too? Philosopher—O, much better. Indifferent fellow—Well, I am out that much. Good day! Philosopher—Ah, by the way, could you lend me $5 for a few days?—Graphic.

It is related that once when Henry Russell, whose singing of his own descriptive songs, "The Lifeboat," "The Newfoundland Dog," and others, is remembered by many New Yorkers, was singing the latter song in an English town, a man called out: "Was the child saved, man?" He was assured that the child was saved, and at that asked more earnestly: "Canst thou get me a pup?"—N. Y. Sun.

"And shall you try to break his will?" the caller wanted to know, after the widow had told her how the recently deceased had fixed the property and rather left her out. "Try?" the widow echoed as she smoothed out her dress complacently. "I don't think there will be much try about it. I didn't have any trouble breaking his will when he was alive, and I don't think it is going to trouble me any this time."

At the Southeast Indiana Confefence in Indianapolis a speaker, referring to the hardships of the early days in the West, turned to the venerable Joseph Tarkingham, aged eighty-six years, and said: "I am glad, Father Tarkingham, that I did not enter the itinerancy at the time you did." "I am sorry I did," said the old man. "But I'm not a good horseback rider," said the speaker. "Well, I am," answered Father Joseph. "I can break a colt yet."

"No, sir! he did not die of pneumonia; he died of bill brokers, sir. He projected an unwise improvement of a piece of real estate, made loans, covered himself with bonds and mortgages, and finally incurred a street debt of $2,000, which rapidly rolled up to $8,000 and crushed the life out of him. He borrowed money on call, got paper discounted, and he worked, lived, and died for the bill brokers. Yes, sir, he died of a street debt, upon which he expended his strength every week, throwing it ahead from one day to seven."—Dry Goods Chronicle.

IN THE OIL REGIONS.

The Noteworthy Struggle that Wound Up the Career of a Phenomenal Town.

The topic was draw poker, and it had been suggested to a group of half a dozen New Yorkers in the Astor House rotunda by a newspaper paragraph which said that the little town of State Line was the greatest place for poker playing in all the oil regions.

"Well, that's saying a good deal," said a man in the group, "for considering, the size of their average pile, the oil-field poker sharps will stick to a pair of aces as faithfully as anybody that ever took cards."

"But I knew of an oil town that in the summer of 1882 had about 15,000 inhabitants," the same man went on, "and by November of that year the sole industry of the town was draw poker. It was the town of Garfield, in Warren county. In the early part of the summer the first wild cat well in the Cherry Groove district blew the drill out of the hole and began flooding the region with oil. Within a few weeks a railroad was running over logs through the hemlock forest, a city of shanties and tents had sprung up, and the drilling wells were so thick that the bull wheels almost rubbed against one another. It was estimated that 15,000 persons were on top of that barren hill; there were theatres, dance houses, pool rooms, and gambling hells; all the noted fighters of the oil region were there, and the boom was the biggest thing of its kind ever seen in this country.

"But the oil came out like water from a blister after half a dozen wells had been sunk, and by the time snow fell every well was a dry hole. About the only persons left there when I visited the town, just before the holidays, were the keeper of what had been the principal hotel, a Hebrew clothier, and a Chinese laundryman. The hotel man had a big house on his hands, and was waiting for a chance to sell it for old lumber. The Hebrew clothier's peculiarity was that he came there in his shirt sleeves, and no man ever had seen him have a coat on. The Chinaman was so fascinated by jack pots that he couldn't get away. These three residents had settled down to poker playing, evidently to see which of the three should have what money they had left. They played in a room that had been occupied by the Sunday school of the First Methodist Church. Every morning, after a late breakfast, the hotel keeper buttoned up his great coat and walked leisurely to the poker room, the clothier's white shirt sleeves flashed around the corner, and the flowing toggery of the Chinaman fluttered in the blast as he joined the two other men. They kept up the game till late at night. I was there three days, and saw no other industry.

"The next spring I was in Warren, and inquired how the game came out. The Chinaman's weakness for jack pots ruined him, they said, and he was last seen striking out 'cross lots for Oil City. The Hebrew clothier hung on better, but his caution in the matter of bluffing enabled the hotel man gradually to break him by taking an ante out of him every time he had the ace or drew cards. He went away in his shirt sleeves in a blustering snow storm about the 1st of March. The hotel-keeper had a pipe of natural gas running into his bar-room stove, and he sat by the fire till warm weather, and then opened another house up in the New York oil field."

A Pittsburg, Pa., inventor has invented a machine which he claims will make natural-gas explosions impossible. It consists of a brass bell with a thin copper diaphragm soldered over the opening of the same. Over the diaphragm is a piece of hard rubber, through which there is a screw; when there is a leak in the joint of the pipe the diaphragm is deflected against the point of this screw, this closes or completes the circuit and gives an alarm in any part of the house, while a small switch will indicate the particular joint leaking. "The alarm," said the inventor, "is so sensitive that it can be adjusted to one-fifth of an ounce pressure, and thus notice is given of a leak, and the gas can be shut off long before it is possible for sufficient gas to generate to cause an explosion."

"Around the world in eighty days" no longer is heard from the lips of the wideawake. It is, like the old "2:40 on a plank road" phrase, out-dated. "Around the world in sixty-nine days" is the true time.
